School board suggests repayment plan

By ANITA DINWIDDIE

The Hancock County school board sent a suggestion for the repayment of the $675,000 Governor's Emergency Council loan to the Board of Supervisors Tuesday along with its letter of intent outlining its plans for using the $180,000 allocated to the schools from the fund.

On the advice of school board attorney Joseph Gex the board decided to submit a suggested plan of repayment which would place a two mill levy separately on the municipalities and the outside area for the first six years followed by a combined levy of two mills for up to 25 years until the loan is repaid. The supervisors have thus far been unable to decide on a plan of repayment of the Camille loan which was due in the office of the director of Budget and Accounting Francis Geoghegan June 6.

Gex said he hoped the school board's plan would solve the concern of the municipalities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland that they would be taxed for the $180,000 spent on the county schools. Last Monday the school board refused to return the money as requested by the board of supervisors.

"By separating the two mill tax for the first six years until the $180,000 is paid off, the cities can't say they are being taxed for the county schools," Gex said. "A two mill tax on the $20 million assessment in the outside area would pay off the $180,000 in about six years while the two mill tax on the $15 million assessment in the municipalities would only pay off the interest. Then after the first six years, the entire county could begin paying on the balance."

Gex said that Geoghegan would hold the next commission meeting to discuss the GEC funds Friday and a carbon copy of the school board's plan would be sent for consideration.

"I think that if the board of supervisors does not have anything Friday, there is a good chance the commission will tell them what to do," Gex said.

Whether or not the schools will be able to use the money for the stated purpose of building a cafeteria and classrooms at Hancock North Central and dressing rooms at Gulfview School has still not been answered. In a meeting between Superintendent K. G. McCarty and Geoghegan last week, the director suggested that the school board deal directly with the board of supervisors on the question of spending the money.

"Basically, Geoghegan told us that the commission was not interested in what the schools do with the money,"

Beat three race

Joe Kersanac, president of Yankee Doodle Food Stores, Inc., Cedar Point, announced this week that he would be a candidate for justice of the peace from beat three in the August democratic primary.

Kersanac, 40, is also a salesman for the Golden Flake Potato Chip Co. and holds a bachelor of science degree in marketing from the University of Southern Mississippi.

He has been a resident of Bay St. Louis since 1949, and is a graduate of St. Stanislaus High School.

He and his wife, Dot, have six children.

said Gex. "They are looking for the board of supervisors to come up with a plan to repay the whole $675,000."

Gex warned the board that they may be threatened with an injunction if they attempted to use the money. He said that although Geoghegan indicated that the commission had no power to take the money back, the projects proposed for the use of the money are not technically acceptable as hurricane related expenditures.

Board members, however, expressed the opinion that the money should be spent immediately. Board member Johnny Banks said he felt Geoghegan's recent recommendation to send the letter of intent had given the board approval to spend the money.

"I think we need to quit making so many motions and just spend the money," said board member Tommy Shaw. "Right now I don't care if they try to enjoin us."

Bridge accident traps driver in wreckage after car strikes rail

A Baton Rouge woman was listed in poor condition at Gulfport Memorial Hospital Wednesday following a one car accident on the east side of the Bay St. Louis bridge late Tuesday evening.

June C. Stiles of 9466 West Dammitt, Baton Rouge, La. suffered multiple fractures of her right leg and other undetermined injuries after her car jumped the retaining curb on the approach to the bridge at approximately 4:30 p.m. Tuesday and struck the guard railing at the end of the bridge.

Harrison County rescue units and Mobile Medic ambulance attendants worked for over 30 minutes to free Ms. Stiles from the wreckage of her automobile which was balanced precariously on the bridge embankment.

Traffic on the bridge approach was congested for nearly 45 minutes during the peak traffic hour as units from Harrison County, Hancock County, the Mississippi Highway Patrol, and Mobile Medic arrived on the scene.

Fayard submits resignation, cites salary, interference

Bay St. Louis fire chief Richard Fayard tendered his resignation Monday for "personal reasons" but a letter to the city council pointed out that his decision was based primarily on salary and interference in his department by Bay St. Louis Mayor Warren Carver.

Fayard said Monday he would continue to serve as chief until June 30 and recommended the council give strong consideration to two younger men presently within the department.

Fayard said with four children, he needed a better paying job, citing only one $10 a month raise with the past year.

Fayard cited interference within the department by the Mayor however as his chief cause for resigning.

"When a man is in charge of his department, he should have the authority to run his department to the best of his ability," Fayard said in his letter of resignation, "and when that man fires another man from his department that should be his decision. The rest of the department should not be called upon to take a vote."

The controversy within the department arose several weeks ago when Fayard fired fireman Steve Carver from the department for allegedly causing disharmony within the department. Carver is the mayor's godchild.

Fayard said that after a conference with the mayor, he was ordered to put Carver back on the payroll.

The question was brought before the council last week when Carver's wife and mother-in-law appeared before the three man body and said that Fayard stated Carver would not get paid for the time he was on suspension from the department.

The council then voted to have the men within the department vote whether they wanted to work with Carver again, with the mayor opposed. Mayor Carver voiced complaints himself about interference within his department. Carver is head of the fire department.

Fayard said Tuesday he did not really "want" to leave the fire

Long Beach begins menhaden clean-up operation

By BOB INNES
Long Beach Bureau

LONG BEACH—Clean-up operations were well underway Wednesday morning to remove thousands of menhaden that had washed to shore after apparently being dumped from poeys boats in the area.

Long Beach Harbor Master Tom Meighen said that approximately 1,000 of the fish had been buried by 11:30 a.m. Wednesday morning but that the small six inch long silver fish still lined other parts of the beach.

Meighen said that the large number of the fish began washing ashore shortly after 11 a.m. Tuesday when five Poeys boats passed the Long Beach Harbor.

The fish line the beaches in an area approximately one mile on each side of the harbor.

Meighen estimated that complete clean-up time would be two days and said that he would have to pay $51 for the work from his own pocket as there were no other funds available.

"I can't actually say the boats did it," he explained, "but I do know nothing in the water killed them." He also noted that it's very possible that a net could have been torn sending the thousands of fish to the Long Beach shores.

Meighen couldn't say why the boats were so close to shore. "they can come within a mile but that's the limit," Meighen explained. He noted that some of the boats were seen within 75-100 yards of the shore.

Since shrimping season began yesterday, Meighen thinks that most of the boats are leaving. He added probably with a good deal of shrimp.

Harrison County Health Department officials and the Mississippi Marine Conservation Commission were notified and Meighen said that clean-up chores did not get underway until Wednesday because Long Beach has an ordinance on that kind of action.

The dead fish stopped washing up on shore around 3 p.m. Tuesday. Meighen said that the five boats were good size and did not return on Tuesday but were seen within 100 yards of the shore on Wednesday.

An unconfirmed report said that one of the boats is named "the Haverstick."

Club registers trees, will work for ordinance

After nearly eight months of work, the Pass Christian Garden Club has completed its registration of the century-old oak trees in the city, but a garden club representative said that the registration could not in itself deter future tree removals.

The effort was begun after two oak trees were removed from the median on Highway 90 to accommodate an extended turnoff bay (Echo, Nov. 21, 1974). Public officials and residents complained that they were never informed of the state highway department's plans for the tree removals.

The garden club presented Pass Christian Mayor Steve Saucier a certificate Tuesday showing that 31 of the city's century-old oak trees had been registered. When asked if the tree registration would stop similar incidents in the future, Mrs. Little replied, "No, except that it may make them think twice before removing the tree without consulting someone. They'll know that there's something official about the tree."

Mrs. Little said that the Garden Club, as well as the Societe des Arbes and the city's bicentennial committee will begin work to get a city ordinance passed which would protect the trees.

The three civic bodies plan to check with Palm Beach, Florida and Mobile, Alabama - both of which have passed ordinances which prohibit the removal of any oak trees without the city's permission - to determine how to initiate a similar plan in Pass Christian.

The 31 trees will bear aluminum tags with the name of a famous American on them. The oldest tree in the city, said Mrs. Little is the William Henry Harrison oak tree that protrudes into East Second Street near The Foxes Den. The William Henry Harrison Oak is estimated to be 191 years old with a limb spread of 62 feet and a diameter of 69 inches.

Mrs. Little said that half-century-old trees, such as the two that were removed in November, cannot be registered and tagged.

Two suspects, Ronald Baum, 33, of Lakeshore and his brother Larry Baum, 32, of Algiers, La., were arrested by the county officers Friday and charged with burglary, larceny and possession of stolen goods following a search of Ronald Baum's home in Lakeshore which resulted in recovery of the stolen property.

Ronald Baum is presently being held in the county jail and his brother Larry who refused to waive extradition remains in the custody of the Algiers police. A bond of $25,000 has been set for each and a hearing of the charges before Judge Lee Klein has been set for July 2.

Supervisors approve

Bienville Steel purchase

Hancock supervisors unanimously approved the sale of 21 acres of land Monday to Bienville Steel, a New Orleans steel fabricating company, for a purchase price of $79,950. The acreage is located in the County's Port Bienville Industrial Park.

John Housey, Jr., manager of the new plant told the supervisors he expected operations to begin in the first quarter of 1976. Construction on the building will begin within the next few months, he said.

Housey said the company would employ approximately 35 to 40 men when the plant began operation.

Port and Harbor director Wilson Webe also advised the board that Jackson Landing Shipyard wished to exercise its option on 50 acres of land adjacent to its present plant at Port Bienville at a purchase price of $126,835.

Webe said port and harbor officials would meet June 27 with officials of the Economic Development Administration to discuss a loan applied for by Jackson Landing to be used for the purchase.

In other business the board accepted the bid of $41,962 from Bush Construction of Laurel for re-sealing of Dummy-Line and Rocky Hill roads.

The board also accepted bids from the following companies: Necaise Trucking - Carver Road, $13,026.80; F. L. Necaise - Bayou Phillips Road, $1,746 and Bienville Church Road, $1,712; and Pearl River Paving Company - Longfellow Road, $22,205; Fenton Access Road, $39,998; Lower Bay Church Dr., $8,327.70; Mount Olive Church

LB aldermen continue expense dispute

By BOB INNES
Long Beach Bureau

A Long Beach Alderman Tuesday charged that a legislative bill authorizing truck and travel spending by the water and sewer commissioner and other city commissioners "is not worth the paper it's written on."

Alderman J. E. Moran made the charge after reading a section of the Mississippi Constitution which prohibits the passing of local and private bills authorizing additional truck and travel expenses by "elected officials."

Moran after a lengthy discussion made a motion that salaries and expenses which are being received by the water and sewer commissioner and any other commissioner on the board in excess of $200 (outlined in) House Bill 2267 be stopped immediately.

He added that hopefully no legal or criminal action will be taken against any individuals involved.

Alderman Salvatore Guiffria seconded the motion but before being put to a vote Alderman Jimmy Savarese, the city's water and sewer commissioner said that Moran was "just mad at not being made mayor pro tem," earlier in the year.

Moran replied that the reason he was doing this was because as an "elected official I'm charged with running the city's affairs."

Alderman Bob Richards said that putting the motion to a vote would be a violation of the council's house rule stating a motion must be placed on the agenda at least 24 hours prior to the regular meeting.

A motion was made by Richards to table the motion until the next meeting. Moran and Guiffria voted against and Savarese and Richards for. The tie was broken by Mayor Sam Maxwell who voted in favor of the table.

Alderman Mike Rutledge was not present at the meeting.

Richards earlier heard a denial from Moran that the action "was a personal attack" on Savarese.

Following the discussion Alderman Guiffria made a motion to rescind the house rule; however, Mayor Maxwell broke the tie once again voting to uphold the tabling of the motion.

City Attorney Harold DeMetz was told by Moran that he (Moran) had been "ill advised." DeMetz said that Moran was in fact the "driving force" behind getting the house bill drafted in the first place.

Earlier in the meeting Alderman Sal Guiffria asked once again if three aldermen, Rutledge, Savarese and Richards met in private prior to the regular meetings and asked for confirmation from a tape recording of minutes from the last meeting. Savarese and Richards admitted that they spend time at city hall looking at bills and studying ordinances and resolutions, but that in no way was this a "private meeting."

"If Jimmy and I happen to be down there at the same time we sometimes confer on matters, but in no way are these meetings private," Richards said. Guiffria wanted to know why he was never invited and Richards countered with the fact that these meetings aren't planned so "no one is invited."

In other business, the council approved an application for a license to sell light wine and beer at Lee's Lounge located in Polillon's Center on Hwy. 90.

The mayor read a petition signed by 12 residents of South Island View Ave. asking that necessary action be taken to have a house either condemned or cleaned up since the house, according to Maxwell, is a health and fire hazard.

HANCOCK COUNTY

Having stated previously the various improvements needed in law-enforcement, I would like to remind the citizens of Hancock County that the youth of our area are in mind.

The youth with which the law enforcement officer has contact today are the ones we will be dealing with for many years to come. Our actions and contacts with them now are going to determine, to a large degree, the success of our future contacts. A first offender could be handled in an improper manner, and instead of accomplishing something good we might do irreparable harm. However, if we are knowledgeable of the laws and utilize the proper procedure in handling them, our actions could improve the youth's respect for law enforcement instead of destroying it.

With this in mind, it is my intention to appoint a duly qualified juvenile officer to my staff in order to accomplish the above.

Respectively,

A rewarding business

Leetown farmer Chester Lee says the cattle business is a lot of hard work but very rewarding. His success in the industry last year earned him and his wife, Effie, the honor of being named Farm Family of the Year in Hancock County by the Farmer's Home Administration.

Leetown couple named farm family of the year

By ANITA DINWIDDIE

Leetown cattleman Chester Lee and his wife Effie were recently named farm family of the year by the Hancock County Farmer's Home Administration as part of a statewide program to recognize farmers who have been the most successful during the year.

Lee, owner of a 650 acre beef cattle operation, located 10 miles east of Poycune, has been in the business of farming for 25 to 30 years and in the cattle business since the early 1960's. He presently operates a 250 head herd as well as a hay and seed operation.

"I don't know about being the most successful farmer," he said, "I do know that it is a lot of hard work, but it can also be very rewarding."

In naming Lee the farmer of the year in Hancock County, the Farmer's Home Administration cited his diversification in incorporating cattle, soybeans and corn. The FHA report also praised the Lee family's ability to overcome adverse weather conditions including Hurricane Camille in 1969 and more recently poor conditions which destroyed much of the 1972 soybean crop.

Lee has been an innovative farmer which he says accounts for much of his success. A new type of hay baler, for example, gives the cattle a free choice in grazing.

The Lee farm has been a family business established on Lee's father's homestead. Seven children, now living mostly in Louisiana and Texas, at one time called the farm home and helped establish its present successful operation.

The Lees are also known as active community members. They are members of the Leetown Baptist Church and the founders of the prisoner's Bible crusade, an organization which distributes free Bibles to 250 state prisons in 22 states.

In addition, Lee served as chairman on the Hancock County Committee of the Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service for three terms and was on the Board of Directors of the Gulf Coast Dairyman's Association and a member of the Mississippi Farm Bureau and Hancock County Cattlemen Association.

"The Bible crusade especially keeps us busy," Lee said. "We have travelled about 30,000 miles visiting these prisoners. I hardly have time to be a cattle farmer, but I do the best I can."

Lee's selection as county farmer of the year is only part of the farmer of the year program. County winners are submitted to district manager Gilbert Montgomery each year for a district selection followed by a state competition between the winners from the 11 districts.

Last year's county winner, Carl Goss was also named district winner and placed second in the state competition.

Diamondhead buys new fire equipment

The Diamondhead Fire Protection District has acquired a 1,000 gallon per minute pumper fire truck for the over 100 homes in the district.

Fire Chief Ed Friloux said the $31,000 1975 Chevrolet truck has a 500 gallon water capacity and the most modern equipment including recently designed nozzles with adjustable stream and adjustable gallonage.

Other features of the new

VA completes checks following delay

The Veterans Administration announced this year that G. I. Bill education checks due 219,279 veterans were being processed by the Department of Treasury following President Ford's signature of the $15 billion second supplemental bill.

The payment of G. I. Bill education checks had been halted since June 1 when funds in VA's education and training accounts were depleted.

Administrator Richard L. Roudebush said VA processing was already done when the President signed the bill into law and veterans were thus assured of no administrative delay in the VA.

A total of $62,839,000 is represented in the $219,279 checks now being processed in Kansas City.

The sum includes $45.7-million due 158,686 veterans for delayed payment tapes that normally would have gone to Treasury on June 2, June 6 and June 9. Another $17,162,000 for an additional 60,593 veterans was included in the tape delivery for the regular VA pay cycle due at Treasury June 13.

With the supplemental money now available, Roudebush said additional VA payment tapes due at Treasury June 16, 20, 25 and 27, will be delivered promptly on the due dates.

On the due dates.

The rally will be open to all state and local candidates.

M. J. Gleber, general church fair chairman, said that no church fair activities would be held on the church fair grounds on the 4th and the night would be reserved exclusively for the candidates.

Haas said forms had been mailed to all candidates that they may reserve time.

OLG plans 4th rally

A giant political rally will be held on the grounds of Our Lady of the Gulf Church July 4 from 5 p.m. to 9 p.m., according to Michael Haas, president of the parish council.

The rally will be open to all state and local candidates.

New Orleans grain company negotiates Port Bienville lease

By ANITA DINWIDDIE

Negotiations for a lease of five acres of property in Port Bienville Industrial Park for the construction of a grain elevator began last week between McPherson and Associates of New Orleans and the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission.

The commission assured R. W. McPherson, president of the company, at last Thursday's meeting, that a site at the end of channel three in the industrial park was available for lease provided a lease agreement could be worked out and approved by the Hancock supervisors.

McPherson said his company plans an investment of approximately $1.5 million in a grain handling facility for soybean, corn and wheat which will serve local farmers in an 80 mile radius. The company also plans to continue its grain salvage operation at the new grain elevator.

The company president said he hoped the elevator could be in operation by the Fall of next year. He said the industry would employ about 12 to 15 workers and would have a grain capacity of 160,000 bushels.

"We think this will be great for local farmers as well as for us," McPherson said. "They will save on trucking expenses and we hope to be able to pay a higher price per bushel of grain."

The only foreseeable problem in the negotiations for the lease is the question of a railroad extension on the lease property. Some of the commissioners hesitated to spend the estimated $60,000 on the extension without any assurances that the grain company would honor the lease.

Commissioner A. G. Harris suggested that the problem could be solved if McPherson and Associates would assume the cost of the railroad in the beginning provided the commission agreed to reimburse the company over a specified period of time. No agreement was reached at Thursday's meeting on the question, but McPherson said he saw no reason why an agreement for reimbursement could not be worked out.

"I think I speak for the entire commission in saying that we will move heaven and earth to facilitate your coming here," said port director Wilson Wehre.

In other business the commission voted to split an insurance loss of $4,570 evenly between the Port and Harbor Commission, Fromherz engineers and contractor H. Gordon Myrick, which was caused by an increase in the fire insurance charges on Bienville Terminal last year due to a defect in the sprinkler system.

The agreement to split the loss was a compromise solution proposed by director Wilson Wehre in an effort to avoid having to blame any of the three parties involved. Insurance rates for the terminal had jumped from $1,900 in the first year to $6,500 the second year. After the defect was corrected, the premiums were reduced to $1,200.

The commission agreed unanimously, however, to accept Wehre's proposal to split the loss because repairs to the sprinkler system, the cost of which were included in the $4,570 figure, would have cost the commission approximately the same as one third the loss.

The commission voted to submit a plan for the correction of the drainage problem on the property owned by Mrs. Azoline F. Thian in Pearlinton as requested by a June 2 resolution from the Board of Supervisors to her lawyer Joel Blass of Gulfport.

The project, at an estimated cost of $50,000, involves placing drainage culverts under the railroad track and under road C-1 leading to Port Bienville Industrial Park. Commission engineer Frank Fromherz said this plan was the only feasible one. He dismissed an original plan submitted by the board saying it would curtail business at International Demolition, one of the tenants of Port Bienville.

The commission seeks a release from Mrs. Thian stating that she agrees with the proposal before work is begun.

A resolution authorizing transfer of $18,000 from the Port and Harbor Construction Fund to the Bond and Interest Retirement Fund to repay GEC funds transferred into the account was tabled by the commission when some members objected to the handling of the bond and interest fund.

Commissioner A. G. Harris objected to Wehre's proposal to withdraw a resolution made in February to repay $60,000 for payment on a loan made to the commission in December of 1970 from the Bond and Interest Fund and substitute the repayment of the $18,000 in GEC money.

"In my opinion, we agreed in February to repay the $60,000 loan and now we are going to take that back and pay only $18,000," Harris said. "I just think that we should honor our word and pay back what we said we were going to pay back."

Wehre told Harris that there was no need for the $60,000 in the fund and that the supervisors had told him to hold off on repayment of the loan.

"I just don't like the way the thing is handled," Harris said. "Up until the present administration there was no regular payment into the fund, and when the fund got in trouble the board looked to us to put up some money. If we owed the money in February, we owe it now and we ought to honor our word and pay it."

In a final action the commission authorized $859.75 to cover additional expenses incurred by Global Associates on the air show at Stennis airport over the original $2,000 allocation.

Civil laws lead topic discussion

Changes enacted by the 1975 state legislature in civil commitment procedures for the mentally ill will be discussed at an open meeting

7:30 p.m. Tuesday, June 24 in the auditorium of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center at 4514 Old Pass Road, Gulfport.

Dr. W. L. Jaquith, director of Mississippi State Hospital, and James Brantley, hospital attorney, will lead discussion at the meeting. Jaquith succeeds Dr. Reginald P. White as executive director of the State Department of Mental Health on July 1.

Preceding the open meeting, Jaquith and Brantley will be interviewed by Dr. Kinsey Stewart, executive director of the Gulf Coast Mental Health Center, on the center's weekly program "Coping," Tuesday at 6:45 p.m. on WLOX-TV, Channel 13, Biloxi.

The meeting is one of five scheduled by the Department of Mental Health throughout the state for the purpose of assisting chancery clerks, chancery judges, sheriffs, boards of supervisors, hospital administrators and attorneys, physicians, and other officials who will be responsible for implementing the new Mental Health Code, House Bill 930, which goes into effect on July 1.

The Coast meeting includes those counties comprising Mississippi Mental Health, Mental Retardation Regions 12, 13 and 14: Jackson, George, Hancock, Harrison, Pearl River, Stone, Jeff Davis, Covington, Jones, Wayne, Marion, Lamar, Forrest, Perry, and Greene.

Waller welcomes printing operation

Governor Waller announced last week the successful completion of contracts which will lead to the construction of the W. F. Hall Printing Company in Corinth.

The Governor said that the contract was negotiated between Hall and National Geographic for the publication of their monthly magazine which is distributed worldwide.

The Governor said that construction of a 350,000 square foot facility will begin immediately in Corinth with an early completion date expected. He said the new facility will employ 550 highly skilled craftsmen to operate the most modern printing facility constructed anywhere in the world.

The Governor said that completion of this contract signaled the end of over two years of negotiations involving the Governor's Office, the A & I Board, Corinth officials, Northeast Mississippi Development agencies, and several private individuals.

State aids alumni to return

The Mississippi Research and Development Center has announced the development of the Mississippi Alumni Registry to assist graduates now employed out of the state who want to return to Mississippi to work.

The registry was developed at the request of the Board of Trustees of Institutions of Higher Learning.

College board President W. M. Shoemaker said, "For many years one of the most serious problems confronting Mississippi, relative to its quest for growth, has been the increasing exodus of our professional and technical manpower. Over the past several decades our institutions of higher learning have graduated thousands of Mississippians trained in the fields for which there is a demand today in our State."

Shoemaker urged those wanting additional information on the Alumni Registry to contact Len Sanford, Manpower Development Division, R & D Center, P. O. Drawer 2487, Jackson 39205, telephone 982-6403.

Brides should change name with Social Security office

June brides should remember to change their name with social security. That reminder comes from Charles E. Wofford, social security district manager in Gulfport.

"No matter which month she's married in, a bride should give us her new name so we can keep her social security card and her earnings record accurate and up to date," Wofford said. "Then earnings she had both before and after her marriage can be correctly credited to the same record."

Earnings women have in jobs covered by social security will determine the amount of their cash benefits—and not just when they retire," according to Wofford. "During their working years, women also build disability, survivors, and Medicare protection for themselves and their families," he said.

To get her name changed on her record, a new bride can call or write any social security office. "Or," Wofford said, "she can use a form available at any post office and at many employer personnel offices."

The Gulfport social security office is at 02015 Pass Road. The phone number is 1-896-1323. The Social Security Administration is an agency of the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

Recently circumstances impelled us to delve into some territory that we hadn't explored up to that time—weekday-morning television. We advise every humanitarian to steel himself and sit through at least one session; you will see nothing but tripe, but you'll meet some people whom their psychiatrists apparently let out only in the mornings.

On the first day we viewed four programs. The format was different, but each was a quiz—or, as one emcee put it, "a mental test of quick reaction." The questions ranged from stupid to plain moronic, such as "In the Civil War, who was the leading general of the Confederates?"

But the amazing factors of these programs were the people, both contestants and audience, and the money! In each case there was an audience of several hundred middle class folks. No doubt they were of average intelligence. Yet they took their orders from the m.c. like well-trained soldiers, applauding when he told them to, laughing when laughter was indicated. Surely, nobody with good judgment ever actually enjoyed a performance by Joey Bishop or Buddy Hackett, yet cued by the flashing sign up front, the audience clapped vociferously. John Barrymore or Helen Hayes couldn't have made a bigger hit. Was it because they were getting a "show" for free in a lush setting, surrounded by the intangible glamour of Hollywood?

But it happens every day. While program producers keep their eyes glued on the little studio audiences and believe what they hear, other viewers depart by the thousands. It makes no noise to turn off a t.v. set!

The big thing now in daytime shows is competition. Get three or four people from a studio audience, add one guest-star from a hit show, ask a few questions like "How old is Ann?", and add cars, boats, furs, trips to Paris and fifty thousand bucks in prizes, and your t.v. ratings take a big jump. So smile and bow—because you're the one who is paying for all this. "But don't become complacent, for tomorrow someone will be along with a new game show that will pay 60 or 70 grand for the answer to 'How old is Ann's younger sister?'" And ultimately, no doubt, there will be one t.v. network competing in some game show with another network, winner take all.

And by the way, how old IS Ann?

Bicentennial News

By JOE PILET

The film, A Past to Honor -- A Future to Mold, was shown at the June meeting of the Hancock County Bay-Waveland Bicentennial meeting when members and their guests met in the Board Room of the County Supervisors. Using the City-County Library's new equipment, Bunk Gardner operated the projector.

James Travica announced contracts for the building of the new library are open the bids. He explained the Board met in special session in order to rush specifications for the bidding. It is hoped the new library will be dedicated during the Bicentennial year.

Regular monthly meetings of the Bicentennial Committee will be suspended during the months of July and August. Mrs. Margaret Shadoin made a motion that no meetings of the group be held during the summer and the group voted unanimously in favor. Committee Chairmen will call meetings of their various groups when and as the occasion demands. "See Mississippi First" vacations recommended by the group include The Natchez Trace, Governor's Mansion, new Hancock County developments such as Port Bienville and Buccaneer

State Park Waveland and McLeod Park in the NASA Buffer Zone.

Claude Allen, assistant Fair Director of the Mississippi Band of Choctaw Indians, urges those who plan to attend this year's fair to make reservations early. Allen said: "There are facilities available in Meridian, which is 45 miles away. There are no motel or camping facilities available on the reservation. There are some accommodations available in Philadelphia." The crafts, skills and games to be displayed at this fair are a part of our American heritage and a visit to the fair offers a close-home vacation trip for family fun.

Jefferson College and Military Institute is also one of Mississippi's historic sites being readied for the Bicentennial celebration. The most important event to occur on the present grounds of Jefferson College was the Constitutional Convention of 1817 which drafted the state's first constitution. Jefferson College is located in Washington, just about six miles out of Natchez.

Our own shores and waters of Bay St. Louis are recommended as a great tree and safe past-time area.

I hope the apparent trend toward not working and "living fairly comfortably, if frugally, on government benefits" isn't as wide-spread as the enclosed clipping would seem to indicate. There was a time when the right not to work

Perhaps if our government made it less attractive to be idle, our sitters would find employment more challenging, interesting, meaningful and rewarding.

LAST WEEK IN CONGRESS

Highlights of last week's activities in the U.S. House of Representatives include a $473 million summer youth employment bill, a Rules Committee hearing on another debt limit increase, and a House-approved energy package.

H. J. Res. 492, which was approved by a 408-8 margin, appropriates a total of $473.35 million to the Labor Department for summer youth employment and recreation programs during the remainder of Fiscal Year 1975. A total of $458 million will be used to create an estimated 840,000 summer jobs providing an average of 26 hours of employment each week for nine weeks while the remaining $15.3 million will be transferred to the Community Services Administration to carry out recreation programs.

While it doesn't go to the heart of the unemployment problem, it at least will put some people back to work.

H. R. 7545, which was reported out of the Rules Committee on a voice vote and will soon be considered by the full House, would increase the "temporary" public debt limit from $531 billion to $616.1 billion from July 1, 1975, through June 30, 1976. That's an increase of $85.1 billion.

Frankly, I think H. R. 7545's sponsors are looking at the wrong end of the economic stick. We should be lowering government expenditures, not raising the debt limit.

After all, what good is a debt limit if all we do is increase it when we feel like it? Besides that, a debt limit is a congressional control point which should not be abandoned.

Accordingly, I plan to vote against H. R. 7545 when it reaches the floor for a final vote.

The big news of the week came when the House finally got around to passing an energy bill. By the time it passed, however, it was so watered-down that it is virtually puncheon.

For starters, the House by a vote of 345-72 rejected a possible 20-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax. Next we killed a 3-cent gas tax imposed by the bill to finance research on new energy sources.

When it finally came out of the congressional wringer, the bill contained import quotas and automobile efficiency taxes as tools to reduce consumption of oil and make the United States self-sufficient. Also included was a tax credit for insulation installation in homes, something I joined in introducing in the House two years ago.

That's pretty weak for a full-fledged energy bill, but hopefully additional legislation will be forthcoming in the months ahead.

"If this tax is enacted, we will be requiring the people of the heartland of

Veterans Information

Q -- As a recently discharged veteran with a service-connected disability, I'd like to attend college under the Veterans Administration's vocational rehabilitation program. I have a wife and child as dependents, and wonder what benefits I'd be entitled to?

A -- Under current rates, you would receive your tuition, fees, books and supplies, plus a $304 monthly allowance check, if you attend full time.

Q -- I'm a veteran in a state which has no burial space left in its national cemetery. Will the Veterans Administration pay anything toward the cost of a burial plot in a private cemetery?

A -- Yes. Under a 1973 law, VA is allowed to pay up to $150 in plot and interment costs of veterans not buried in national cemeteries.

Q -- I received an honorable discharge after two years of service in Vietnam. Am I eligible for burial in a Veterans Administration cemetery?

A -- Yes. All of the original VA cemeteries as well as most of the cemeteries formerly under other government agencies are now incorporated into a national cemetery system within VA. You would be eligible for burial in any national cemetery having space, except Arlington where the few remaining spaces are reserved for those who die in active duty or retired status and high government officials.

Q -- I'm the wife of a World War II veteran who named his mother as beneficiary on his $10,000 National Service Life Insurance policy. Can the Veterans Administration designate me as beneficiary if I request it?

America to carry this burden on both shoulders. It is unfair; it is inequitable; it is grossly discriminatory against the vast majority of the people of this country who do not have access to public transportation."

I voted against it because it would have been unfair to South Mississippians who must drive to work each day. Additionally, it would not have produced one single unit of energy.

County Agent's Notes

SOYBEAN FERTILIZER

If you are going to grow soybeans successfully, you must give them the plant food they need. Phosphate and potash are both needed for top production.

A 40-bushel soybean yield removes as much phosphate and more than twice as much potash from the soil as one and one-half bales per acre cotton.

Soybean yields on low testing soils can be doubled by applying 200 to 300 pounds per acre of 0-20-20 or its equivalent. Early side-dress applications are effective. The time to apply is as soon as the beans are up to a stand and by incorporating the fertilizer during the first cultivation.

CARRYOVER SEED

Many farmers and seedsmen are wondering what to do with seed that they have not been able to plant or sell.

Rice seed generally store well. If not planted this year, they will probably be suitable for planting next year if they are stored in a dry place where the temperature doesn't get over 100 degrees.

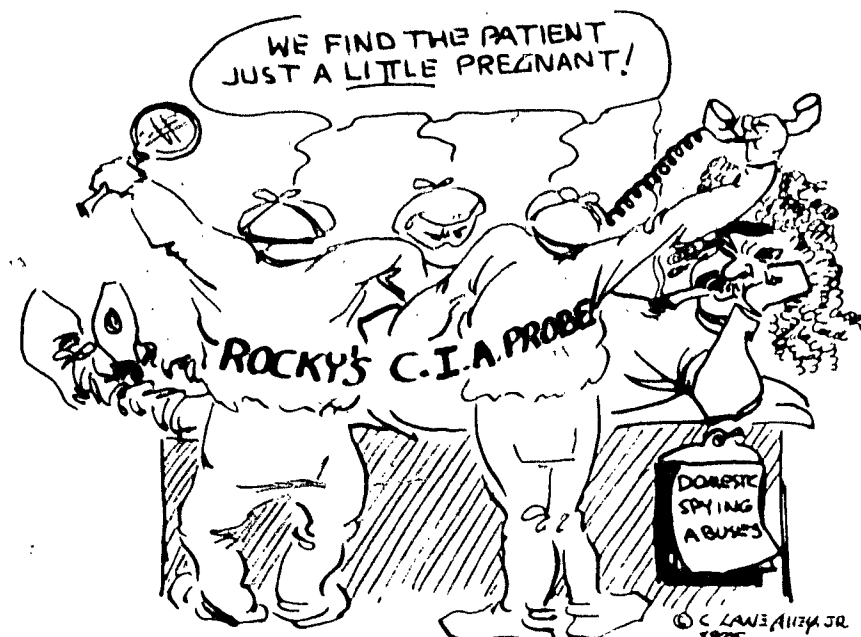

Soybean seed do not store well and in most cases should not be carried over. Metal storage bins are not good for summer seed storage as temperatures inside will reach well over 100 degrees. Seed in bags should be stored in conventional warehouses on pallets to keep them in as good a condition as possible. In any case, test all seed before deciding to store them until next year.

LATE PLANTED GRAIN SORGHUM

Grain sorghum planted after about June 10 will likely yield less than that planted earlier in May. Results of tests at Mississippi State University indicated that sorghum planted this late or later is likely to yield only one-half to two-thirds as much as that planted earlier.

If sorghum is planted this late, fertilizer rates should be reduced accordingly. Late planted sorghum is not a good substitute for late planted soybeans.

The sorghum midge, a small gnat-like insect that lays eggs in sorghum heads as they bloom, can virtually destroy a grain crop in both grain and silage sorghum. These insects are usually more of a problem in late planted sorghum.

SOYBEAN SEED TREATMENT

On land that has not been planted to soybeans for the past three years, inoculate soybean seedling before planting. This is especially important on land that is going from pasture to soybeans.

The so-called double and triple mixtures of inoculants, fungicides, molybdenum or both are discouraged where inoculation is truly needed. You may frequently expect poor results from the prepackaged mixtures.

Many pastures infested with horsetail, cypressweed, persimmon sprouts, and other 2,4-D resistant species may need to be treated with a mixture of dicamba and 2,4-D. Do not use this mixture on clover pastures.

SUMMER IS LIMING TIME

Let summer be liming time for your pastures. It's the slack season for lime vendors and plenty of lime is available. If you have added clovers or other legumes to your pastures, liming becomes even more important as legumes require a higher soil pH than grass.

Pastures for temporary grazing should be limed before fallowing begins. If the area is to be flat broken

Home Ec Notes

ROAST -- A TASTE TREAT

A good roast is always a meat taste treat and beef supplies are plentiful. The abundant beef supplies include USDA Choice roasts and also the less expensive baby beef which is not graded because of its lack of fat.

To determine the true cost of a roast, base figures on the cost of each serving. This is more accurate than the pound price because some cuts may have losses due to bone or fat waste.

For example, a rib roast will yield about two servings per pound, whereas an eye of round, sirloin tip or a boneless rump will yield three servings a pound.

To retain the juiciness, tenderness and flavor of a roast, cook at a low to moderate temperature (300-325 degrees). Other reminders on successful roasting are offered:

Buy a roast large enough (four pounds or larger) to avoid overcooking, especially if some servings of rare or medium rare meat are desired.

If using baby beef lacking a fat cover, place two to three strips of bacon over the top during dry roasting.

Remember to cook baby beef only to rare to medium done to avoid drying out the tender meat.

and then disked during the summer, apply the recommended amount of lime between flat breaking and disking.

QUALITY FORAGE

Regardless of the variety of forage you are growing, stage of maturity at cutting greatly influences the quality of forage that you will store.

As crops begin to mature and to make seed or head out, quality declines fast. The fiber content of the plant increases and the protein content generally decreases with maturity. This results in a forage that is low in energy and protein, the two major nutrients contained in feed.

Recommended stages of cutting for some major forage crops are: ryegrass, before heading; legumes, during early bloom, about 1-10th bloom. Millet, sudax and johnsongrass, between 40 and 50 inches tall and before the first seed heads appear; corn for silage, when in full dent stage; even the small grains at the end of the cob should be in the dent stage.

Experience and research show that it is best to cut grain sorghum when the bottom one-third of the grain head is in the dough stage.

Meat with an outside layer of fat takes longer to cook than meat with little or no fat cover.

Place meat fat side up in a shallow open pan. Use a rack in the pan to keep the meat out of the drippings. Do not pour liquid over the meat during cooking.

Boneless and rolled roasts require more cooking time per pound than those with the bone in.

A small roast requires more minutes per pound to cook than a large roast. However, the total cooking time is less than for a large roast. Aged meats cook slightly faster than unaged meat.

Frozen beef roasts may be cooked without defrosting. However, this requires additional cooking for one-third to one-half longer.

Meat continues to cook after removal from the oven. Cooked roasts carve easier and make more attractive slices if allowed to stand or set 10 to 15 minutes after removal from oven.

Remove roast from oven when the meat thermometer registers about five degrees lower than the desired temperature for doneness.

A roast may be salted before or after cooking. The salt penetrates only one-fourth to one-half inch into the roast.

Social Security

People getting monthly social security payments should notify the Social Security Administration now if they plan to move soon, according to Charles E. Wofford, social security district manager in Gulfport.

"Prompt notice will help assure delivery of your social security check to your new address without delay or interruption," Wofford said.

A move can be reported on the change-of-address form printed on the back of the envelopes in which social security checks are delivered. "Or you can call, write, or visit any social security office," Wofford said.

The report should include both your old and new address-including ZIP codes-as well as the social security claim number that appears on your social security checks, he said.

Social security pays over $4½ billion a month in retirement, disability, and survivors' benefits to over 30 million people. The Gulfport social security office is at 02015 Pass Road. The phone number is 1-896-1324.

People should promptly report changes in circumstances that could affect their supplemental security income payments and should not wait to hear from social security, according to Charles E. Wofford, social security district manager in Gulfport.

The supplemental security income program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 or over or blind or disabled. Eligibility and monthly payments amounts can be affected by changes in income, living arrangements, marital status, and other circumstances.

"To get the right supplemental security income checks to the right people on time," Wofford said, "the Social Security Administration periodically contacts people getting payments to review their eligibility and monthly payment amounts."

Summer work programs get go ahead funding

Reverend I. Z. Blankinship, Sr., executive director of Pearl River Valley Opportunity, Inc., announced Monday that the Summer Youth Employment Project has been re-implemented as a result of congressional and executive actions this week.

$473 million in funds became available for summer youth employment programs after President Gerald Ford's bill signing June 16.

Helmon Johnson, Director of the project stated that he became especially optimistic about the signing of the bill after he was engaged in a telephone conversation with a spokesman from the White House.

John Carson, Assistant to Press Secretary Ron Nessen informed Johnson earlier this week that the President was very favorable to the bill and felt that it was a much needed program.

Because of several technicalities involved it is projected that the program will not officially go into effect until June 23. The bill must be transmitted to the Department of Labor in Washington, D. C. In turn the Department of Labor will allocate money to the regional office in Atlanta which in turn will allocate money to the Governor's Education and Training Department in Jackson. When allocations are received in Jackson PRVO and other sub-contractors will then be given the final go-ahead.

Johnson estimates that each participant will be able to work 8-9 weeks. The wages and hours will remain the same. 14-15 year olds will work 24 hours per week at $2.10 per hour, 16 to 21-year-olds will work 32 hours per week at $2.10 per hour. College students not older than 21 will work 40 hours per week at $2.30 per hour.

Because of the project's delay the number of people allowed to work in each county has increased tremendously. The new tentative slots indicate Wilkinson 75, Amite 66, Pike 18, Jefferson Davis 94, Marion 132, Lamar 75, Pearl River 169, Hancock 83, and Walthall 56. The total slots now have increased to 939. Participants in the program are now being contacted by the Summer Youth Staff at PRVO. For more information contact the office of PRVO.

Clementin finishes fifth year as coach

Arthur Clementin, a 1965 graduate of Valena C. Jones High School, has just completed his fifth year as head track coach at Jackson Parksite High School in Jackson, Michigan.

A Pearlinton native who resided with his grandparents, Mrs. Charles Giles and the late Rev. Giles, Clementin will send one of his proteges (Fred Parker) to the coaches' dream this year. Parker will compete in the long jump in the high school nationals this summer. Under the direction of Clementin, Parksite recorded its third banner year in track by chalking up conference and regional championships. Last year Parksite was the state runner-up, and the year before, Clementin led his charges to a third place finish in state competition.

Summer classes show upswing

POPLARVILLE — Summer school at Pearl River Junior College is in full swing with a record enrollment.

Overall enrollment peaked at the end of the first week at the 249 mark, nearly 100 more than a year ago. However, the offering of summer school vocational-technical programs contributed to the increase. One hundred eighty of the total is academic students with 69 enrolled in v-tech courses.

Vo-tech departments are showing a strong interest, especially as students realized they could graduate a semester early if they attended summer school. "The summer vo-tech programs are part of the educational trend to turn out more skilled craftsmen," Albert Brooks, PRC vo-tech director said.

Academic day classes offered are: chemistry, physical science, microbiology, algebra, trigonometry, world history, sociology, American history, English, speech, and psychology.

Vo-tech courses made available this summer are: auto mechanics, carpentry and cabinet making, electricity, heating-air conditioning, refrigeration, diesel mechanics, machine shop, masonry, welding, and cosmetology. Second semester summer school begins with registration Monday, July 7 at 8 a.m. For further information contact the director of admissions at 795-4558.

Forester announces cost-share program

Hancock County Forester Michael Williams announced that applications for cost-sharing grants for seedlings or tree planting are now being taken by his office.

Two programs are available for landowners to receive the grants, he said, one under the Federal Incentive Program (FIP) administered by the federal government and under the Forest Resource Development Program (FRDP) administered by the state.

Landowners may receive cost-sharing funds covering up to 75 percent of the cost for tree planting, not to exceed $30 per acre; site preparation, not to exceed $40 per acre; and reforestation (T.S.I.), not to exceed $25 per acre.

"Mississippians are very fortunate to have two programs to help landowners with forestry practices," said Williams. "It is to the advantage of every landowner to take an interest in the role his land is playing in helping American re-establish and conserve her natural resources."

Williams said landowners could contact him at 467-5456 or 255-7152.

Gulf Coast grant awarded to USM

HATTIESBURG — A grant of $20,000 to assist the tourism, recreation and seafood business on the Gulf Coast has been received by the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Dr. D. C. Williams, Jr., bureau director, says the funds come from the Mississippi-Alabama Sea Grant Consortium. Principal investigators include Dr.

Williams, Dr. David J. Etzold, Dr. Charles Cartee, and Mrs. Nell Murray.

"The major objectives of the project are to provide a way for the people of the Gulf Coast to express the needs of the area as they see them, and, to assist local residents in solving problems of interest to them—problems to which they are willing to give some attention and effort," Williams said.

Availability of raw materials, labor spur industrial surge

By ANITA DINWIDDIE.

Several large industries have recently finalized plans to establish in the county including Alcan Cable Corporation in Bay St. Louis and Bienville Steel at Port

Activity at Port Bienville

Workers on one of the liberty ships being dismantled by International Demolition are some of the beneficiaries of the establishment of industry in Hancock County.

Bienville Industrial Park.

Manager of Alcan Cable, Galen Lecher, said the main reason for the location of the new cable plant was to achieve geographical distribution.

"We were looking in this general area to establish our new plant and we chose Hancock County because of the availability of the large building, the availability of aluminum and because we found there were people in the area who were familiar with the industry and could be trained to do the work," Lecher said.

Alcan, a potential employer of 65 to 125 skilled and semi-skilled workers, is occupying the old Eljer plant on Central Ave. Completion of the renovation work is set for the end of the year.

Bienville Steel, a steel fabricating industry out of New Orleans, is also planning to begin operations at the beginning of next year.

Manager John Housey said 35 to 40 employees will be needed at the plant located at Port Bienville.

The new company will join five other already established industries at the 2200 acre industrial park in the southwestern section of the county.

Port and Harbor director Wilson Webre explained that some of the features of the park which are attracting the new industries are the availability of large land areas, easy access to transportation facilities and an abundant labor force in the county.

"Since the county began development of the industrial park in 1963, an estimated $7.5 million has been invested in improving the facilities to attract new industry to the county," Webre said. "We are just beginning to experience a sudden and dramatic growth in the area which I am sure will adequately compensate the county for the money spent on the park."

Webre listed as some of the improvements offered to businesses the five miles of channels, eight miles of railroads, a turning basin, a terminal building and bulkhead, a modern water and sewage treatment facility, a power transmission station and miles of improved roadways.

"The park is strategically located in the southwestern portion of the county," said Webre, "which means that we are close to all major avenues of transportation. We are located within three miles of the intercoastal waterway and we are close to both I-10 and I-59. Another good thing is that the area is not subject to residential growth because it is located just south of the NSTL buffer zone."

The first of the five present occupants of Port Bienville was Jackson Landing Shipyard, managed by Charles Hill, which located in the park in 1974. The industry which builds and repairs barges is the largest employer at the park, hiring approximately 130 skilled and semi-skilled workers.

Joining Jackson Landing in the park during its first year of operation was J&I Fabricating, rebuilders of railroad cars.

"The labor market here was the prime reason for coming," said L. K. Moore, manager of J&I Fabricating. "I found that there was an adequate supply of skilled people to do the jobs. I plan on expanding next year which will mean that I will need to hire more people."

Moore is also the manager of the Bienville Terminal, a transfer station between water, rail and truck for the industries located at the park. He said the terminal was making efforts to improve the transportation facilities in the area particularly by getting more trucklines and by obtaining lower barge rates.

"Nobody has to convince me about the benefits of bringing industry to Hancock County," he said. "We have spent anywhere from $75,000 to $100,000 ourselves promoting Hancock County to other industries."

Ernest Mitchell, manager of International Demolition, an industry in the business of dismantling ships for salvage said the weather conditions of the area was also a major factor in his company's move to Hancock County as well as the availability of land and water access.

Mitchell said 95 percent of his 30 to 35 employees were Hancock County residents. He said that the company would probably increase to 50 employees due to the acquisition of four more vessels for salvage.

The newest resident of the industrial park, Marine Concrete Structures, recently launched its first concrete barge from its Port Bienville plant. The company which has only been in operation for a few months is in the process of manufacturing the first concrete barges for use in removing oil from the water pumped from off-shore wells.

The focus of industry in Hancock County in recent years has been on the development at Port Bienville, but the county has also supported several small industries for many years.

Established businesses in the county include Hancock County Industries in Kiln, manufacturers of fiber glass boats, Sam Whitfield Timber Company of Bay St. Louis, a pulpwood industry, and industries in Bay St. Louis, manufacturers of custom kitchen equipment and stainless steel fabrication.

The latest addition to the small industry group is Medical Methods located on Main St. in Bay St. Louis. The new business, which distributes a new type of wheel chair, began its operation a few months ago.

By land and sea

The Bienville Terminal at Port Bienville Industrial Park offers industry in Hancock County an easy access to water, rail and road transportation. The terminal can handle ocean-going barge traffic and provides an excellent transfer point from the Gulf to rail and truck routes.

Agency issues tick warning

The Hancock County Health Department today urged residents to guard against tick bites because of the risk of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever.

Cases of this tick-borne disease reach a peak during spring and early summer, Dr. Louis H. Jobe, Director with the health department said.

The Health Department noted that Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever is a serious disease that has a high death rate if it isn't diagnosed and treated early. There were 774 cases reported in the United States last year, the highest number ever recorded. During the past five years 77 cases of Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever were reported from Mississippi.

Residents are advised to examine themselves for ticks after being in areas likely to have ticks. He said children should be examined for ticks at least twice a day. Woods, underbrush, and other uncleared areas are likely sources of ticks.

If a tick is found attached, it should be quickly removed, using a gentle, steady pull. The use of tweezers is recommended, if available.

The infected tick usually has to be attached for several hours before the disease is spread. "While most ticks are not infected with Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever, they should all be promptly removed and a doctor should be consulted if symptoms of RMSF occur."

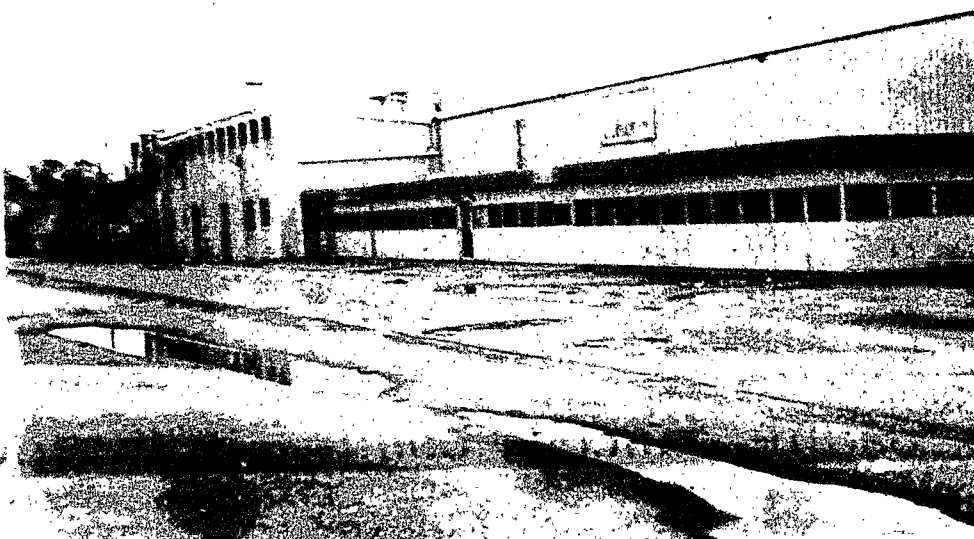

The disease starts three to 10 days after being bitten by an infected tick. The first symptoms, which appear suddenly, include chills and fever, and severe headache. Rash usually appears about the third day and then spreads over the entire body.

Senator Stennis supports military allocations

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Senator John C. Stennis expressed pleasure last week with Senate approval of a $50,205,000 military construction authorization for facilities in Mississippi.

Following approval of a $25 billion military procurement bill by the Senate last Friday, Stennis said passage of the companion construction bill further reflects the opinion of the American people that the United States must remain superior in military matters.

"We all hope for world peace," Stennis said, "but we must be realistic enough to know that negotiations for peace can only be effective if the capability to take forceful action exists. The funds when appropriated will provide the facilities necessary to support our men and women in uniform who are vital to our total defense operations."

The almost $4 billion

military construction bill authorizes funds for facilities throughout the world.

The largest single authorization in Mississippi is $43,140,000 for expansion and alteration of the composite medical facility at Keesler Air Force Base in Biloxi. When completed, the Keesler facility will provide medical operational support, general health care and specialty referral care for the Department of Defense Health Care Region Nine which includes Mississippi, Louisiana, Kentucky, Alabama and part of Florida, said Stennis.

Authorization for energy conservation measures totaling $75,000 were approved for Columbus Air Force Base and Keesler. Columbus AFB will receive $25,000 for installation of storm windows plus $50,000 for alteration of mechanical systems and installation of insulation. Approval of the Keesler AFB requests include $25,000 for insulation, $151,000 for alteration of mechanical systems, $24,000 for altering electrical systems and $22,000 for lighting fixtures.

The Army Reserve at Greenwood received approval of $1,530,000 for construction of a 200-man center with organizational maintenance shop and the Vicksburg Army Reserve received approval of $150,000 for alteration of its existing 200-man center.

Columbus Air Force Base received authorization of $1,454,000 to consolidate the base personnel office. The Mississippi National Guard was authorized to construct a weekend training equipment pool at the former Camp McCain site near Grenada at a cost of $221,000, while Camp Shelby near Hattiesburg received a $200,000 authorization for a nine-bay organizational maintenance shop, and $406,000 for training facilities for the National Guard. The Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Center in Jackson was authorized $1,537,000.

Hancock chamber of commerce urges joint effort by businesses

Both businesses and individuals whether newcomers or long established residents of Hancock County have found they have a common friend in the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce, said chamber president Perry Gibson.

Gibson and chamber manager Max Berns explained that the chamber can act as a clearinghouse for inquiry and assistance for businessmen and individuals in the county.

"The chamber is the one group that is the most comprehensive in providing a local business with the information it needs," said Berns.

He listed as some of the reference materials made available to businesses through the chamber the newcomer inquiry file, the tourist inquiry file, the business reference library and a buyer's guide.

"Helping the business community is what the chamber is all about," said Gibson. "You might call it the central intelligence agency for business. It is a source for gathering the information and also for projecting a positive attitude in the business community."

Berns pointed out one example of how the chamber aided a new company, Medical Methods, to establish in Bay St. Louis. The industrial committee of the chamber is presently in the process of gathering information for the new company which distributes a specially designed wheelchair to markets throughout the country, Berns said.

"We are helping them to put together the funds they need to further manufacture the product," said Berns. "And we are also helping them to find out where additional monies are available through the Mississippi Research and Development Center and the Manufacturer's Association."

Berns said the chamber can help business through its direct hotline to the governor's office and also by obtaining information on pending and enacted legislation in the state.

"We can do a lot of things easier as a chamber than the individual businessman can do," Berns said.

"We can obtain the statistical data on employment and taxes and the status of legislation faster. And another benefit of the chamber is that we can get speakers that the business community would be interested in hearing to come to the county, and we can organize seminars and workshops."

Gibson added that the chamber can also aid the individual businessman by organizing joint efforts to boost the business community such as the recent Positive Economic Programs Committee efforts on the coast and the annual community bargain days.

"We provide the small businessman to participate in large, well publicized sales," said Gibson, "and we improve his business by improving the total outlook of business in the community. The small businessman does not often see the benefit of the chamber of commerce because it is an intangible benefit, but when the business community improves as a whole through the efforts of the chamber, he is receiving some of the benefits too."

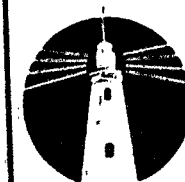

Things are brighter on the Coast

Do You Know How Good the Gulf Coast Economy Really Is?

"Bank deposits are holding up real well, even compared with the banner year of 1974. Saga Oil is spending $30,000,000 on the Coast in search of new oil reserves. And a new world record was set at the Port of Gulfport when one Standard Fruit ship unloaded 190,000 boxes of bananas in April."

Things are brighter on the Mississippi Coast! Let's smile and tell folks what a great place this is to live, work and play.

Rebel room

Ole Miss Coach Ken Cooper shows one of the rooms in the new $3.5 million football dormitory to fullback L.Q. Smith, left and tight end Ray Poole. The facility includes 128 rooms for athletes in all sports.

Ole Miss schedules dorm opening

The new Ole Miss athletic dormitory, costing an estimated $3,500,000, is slated to open this fall for 256 Ole Miss athletes.

"We are very excited about the athletic dormitory and what it will mean to the sports programs of The University of Mississippi," said Athletic Director John Vaught.

"There is no doubt about it, this is one of the finest athletic facilities in the nation and one which has been needed for some years at Ole Miss," Vaught said.

The new dormitory, which replaces Miller Hall, home of the Rebels since 1959, will contain 97,400 square feet of floor space. The facility will include 128 private rooms which are arranged into four-room suites, dining facilities, a lounge, student organization room, recreation area, film, training and study rooms, and two counselor apartments. Brewer, Godbold and Associates of Clarksdale are architects for the three story facility.

"What really is important is that this fine facility will improve the quality of life for our students," Head Coach Ken Cooper said. "The dormitory is located in the heart of our campus and convenient to all campus facilities. On many campuses, athletic dormitories are located away from the center of campus activities, but at Ole Miss we feel it is essential that athletes have the opportunity to be involved in a wide range of campus activities," Coach Cooper said.

Coach Vaught said the dormitory has been constructed under a handicap of escalating costs during a period of recession.

"All of our costs, just as in any business, have gone up," he said. Because of these increases and the fact that during a recession people have less income to spend on leisure activities such as sports, we are inviting our alumni and supporters to help pay for the unanticipated portion of our costs in building the dormitory."

Cliff Worsham of Corinth, president of the Alumni Association, has accepted the position of chairman of a capital fund campaign committee which will raise $500,000 through a special program of the Ole Miss Loyalty Foundation.

"The new Athletic Dormitory is essential to the long term development of a competitive and winning sports program at Ole Miss," Worsham said. "I know that there are many alumni, friends and supporters who will help in this effort. Our committee will be contacting supporters of athletics at Ole Miss to give our friends the opportunity to participate in the funding of the dormitory."

Summer session in process at laboratory

Again this summer the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory of Ocean Springs is alive with young college students enrolled in summer courses in the marine sciences, and doing graduate research.

Fifty-eight students are enrolled for the first term of the summer session. About half are from university campuses located in Mississippi, with the remainder coming from seven different states. In all, the enrollment represents 15 institutions of higher learning.

The group of students includes one post graduate, 20 graduates, and 37 undergraduates. The post graduate is Dr. Robert J.

Kuster, professor of biology at Southeast Missouri State University, who is taking the Marine Botany course.

Six courses are being taught during the first term which started June 2. The courses and instructors are: Marine Invertebrate Zoology, Dr. Edwin W. Cate, Jr.; Special Problems in Marine Science, by staff scientists; Techniques in Marine Science for Teachers, Gerald C. Corcoran (Tuesday evenings for ten weeks); Marine Botany, Dr. R. B. Channell; Marine Chemistry, Drs. Julia and Thomas Lytle; Marine Fisheries Management, J. Y. Christmas, staff and visiting specialists.

In addition to the summer students, most of whom are in classes fulltime, five days a week, there are nine other graduate students on campus doing research. The most recent additions to this group are John Demond and Ron Lukens, both of whom are working towards master's degrees from the University of Southern Mississippi. They began working at the Laboratory in May.

Both Demond and Lukens will be doing studies involving the artificial reef (liberty ship) that has been sunk off the Coast of Mississippi, about five miles south of Horn Island. Demond will be studying amphipods and Lukens is doing a successional study of ichthyofauna associated with the new reef material. Demond received a research assistantship and is employed parttime in the Lab's Microbiology Section. Lukens is doing his research in the Anadromous Fishes Section in connection with a project funded by Sea Grant.

Demond expects to be at the Laboratory at least one year, but Lukens expects to complete his work by December. Demond's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James A. Demond of Lumberton, La. Lukens and his wife, Pam, are residing in Ocean Springs.

Pot roast ideal for Sunday

MISSISSIPPI STATE A fruited pot roast makes an ideal Sunday dinner, suggests Ann O. Rushing, marketing specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. Leftovers can provide a good lunch or a quickie supper.

For your fruited pot roast select a three to four pound roast. Brown it on all sides in a little hot fat and season well.

Combine a cup of apple cider or apple juice with two tablespoons of sugar, a quarter teaspoon of cinnamon, quarter teaspoon of ginger and three whole cloves. Pour the mixture over the meat.

Add one sliced onion. Cover and simmer for two and one-half hours or until the meat is tender. The roast may also be cooked in the oven for two and one-half to three hours. Mrs. Rushing suggests, at 300-325 degrees.

While the meat is cooking, soak a dozen dried apricots and a dozen prunes. A package of dried mixed fruit is less expensive and may also be used.

Drain the fruit and add to the meat 30 minutes before it is done.

Baer plans to screen several unknowns choosing the characters in the film. He says he wants two people with no identity because the audience believe they are Bob and Billy Joe.

Allen states that production of "Ode to Billy Joe" will begin in late summer and be filmed in north Mississippi.

In describing the film, he says it's "Romeo and Juliet" in the South about 1955. Screenplay, written by Herman Raucher of "Sunset Boulevard" fame, is based on "Ode to Billy Joe" and sung by Mississippi Bobbie.

Out-of-control car hits trees

State Highway Patrolman John Poulsen sustained minor injuries Monday after losing control of his patrol car while in pursuit of another vehicle on Highway 90 near 603.

Poulsen's car left the right shoulder of the highway and crossed into a wooded section of the NASA buffer zone after he reportedly swerved to avoid hitting a third car that entered the highway from a turnoff in front of him.

The front end of the car suffered heavy damage after hitting small pines and saplings and was towed away

Moviemaker Max Baer looking for talent

Max Baer, producer of the movie "Ode to Billy Joe" soon to be filmed in Mississippi, says he is looking for new talent.

Baer plans to screen test several unknowns before choosing the leading characters in the film. Baer says he wants two young people with no identification because the audience has to believe they are Robbie and Billy Joe.

Charles Allen, executive director of the Mississippi Film Commission, a division of the Agricultural and Industrial Board, says that Baer will also be looking for local talent for the movie.

Allen states that production on "Ode to Billy Joe" will begin in late summer and will be filmed in north central Mississippi.

In describing the film, Baer says it's "Romeo and Juliet" in the South about 1952. The screenplay, written by Herman Raucher of "Summer of '42" fame, is based on the hit, "Ode to Billy Joe," written and sung by native Mississippian Bobbie Gentry.

"Ode to Billy Joe" is the third picture for Baer. His first, "Macon County Line" in which he starred and also wrote and co-produced, was one of the top-grossing box office hits in 1974.

In "The Wild McCullochs," his second picture, he again had a starring role. He also directed the film, as well as wrote the screenplay and story.

From 1962 to 1971 Baer was known to millions of television viewers as Jethro on "The Beverly Hillbillies." He has also co-starred in the feature film, "The Long Ride Home," and in the TV Movie of the Week, "The Birdman."

Waller gains governors' approval of resolution

Governor Bill Waller last week gained approval by the National Governors' Conference of resolutions calling for a crash program to expand the nation's energy supply and expand the U. S. role in world trade.

Waller said that passage of the energy resolution marked the first time that the Governors' Conference had adopted programs to help the working men by solving the energy crisis.

Waller's trade resolution said "The United States needs a national goal for an aggressive expansion of world trade, as opposed to simply being order-takers."

Governor Waller delivered the resolution to officials of the State Department Friday and has urged Congress to increase the appropriation for international commercial activities. He also called for more Federal assistance to the states in their efforts in foreign trade.

placed in full-time jobs within various state agencies and organizations.

"This effort will be a great asset to the state in that more young people will become involved and gain a first hand knowledge of the workings of state government, and at the same time be afforded full-time summer employment," said Waller.

Baxter said that state agencies and organizations participating in the program include Mississippi Department of Youth Services, Mississippi State Board of Health, Vocational Rehabilitation for the Blind, Mississippi State Hospital at Whitfield, Mississippi Treasury Department, Gulf Coast Research Laboratory, Mississippi Authority for Educational Television, Mississippi Library Commission, Mississippi Division of Public Welfare, Mississippi Park Commission, Division of Drug Misuse, and Mississippi Department of Agriculture and Commerce.

Tubb said that funds for the development of the Casey Jones Museum were made available by H. B. 660, a $25 million measure for state parks development, which was passed by the 1972 session of the legislature at the urging of Governor Bill Waller. Tubb said that $125,000 is available for the project.

Hotline answers record calls

Project Director of the Governor's Hotline, Joyce Shuford, said that the Hotline handled a total of 1,071 calls during the month of May.

She said that this marked the sixth consecutive month that the Hotline has received more than 1,000 calls and that the average number of calls per day now stands at 50.

"We continue to be encouraged by the tremendous utilization of this service," Mrs. Shuford said. "I urge all Mississippians who have any question or problem concerning state government to call 1-800-222-7629."

Law agency changes name

Governor Waller announced Wednesday that the name of the Mississippi Division of Law Enforcement Assistance has been changed to the Mississippi Division of Justice.

"The role of this division of the Governor's office has been continually expanded to the point where it now includes every facet of justice," he said.

"Criminal justice extends far beyond the area of law enforcement. We hope this agency will continue to serve as a valuable tool in our efforts in justice from the arrest to the trial and on through the rehabilitation process," Waller added.

The Governor said that since the division was created in 1969, it has funneled more than $33 million into the state's criminal justice system.

If you bought your home in 1970, we have some good news and some bad news.

THE GOOD NEWS.
Your house is worth about 45% more than you paid for it.

THE BAD NEWS.
Your insurance probably only covers about half of its current value.

It's a fact! According to statistics compiled by the U.S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of Census, a house that sold for $26,600 in 1970, on the average would have sold for $38,700 in 1974.

An increase of 45.5% in just 4 years! And while your house has appreciated in value, the costs of the things in it—the things that make it your home, have gone up too. From a silver teaspoon to the portable TV in the bedroom, almost everything you own would cost much more to replace today than when you bought it.

All of this is good news from an investment viewpoint, because if you're like most people your home is your biggest investment and most valuable asset. But it could be bad news if you haven't increased your insurance coverage to keep pace with today's prices.

If you haven't reviewed your coverage lately, call your insurance agent. You'll probably be pleasantly surprised at how little it would cost to bring your coverage up to current values. And it could mean the difference between maintaining the standard of living you've worked for, or settling for half as much.

Health agency urges rabies protection

Mississippi dog owners are encouraged to make sure their pets are vaccinated for rabies, said Dr. Durward Blakey, chief of the Bureau of Disease Control for the Mississippi State Board of Health.

According to Dr. Blakey, a state law requires that every dog be vaccinated after the age of six months and every year, thereafter.

Under the law, the offender shall on conviction be fined for the first offense in a sum not to exceed $5; and a second offense not to exceed $25 and a third offense, $50 together with all costs, including court costs, Blakey said.

Blakey said that even though there hasn't been a case of rabies in 10 years except in bats, it is the duty of the pet owner to see that his pets are vaccinated as a preventive measure.

Mid East businessmen visit state

Governor Bill Waller and the Mississippi Marketing Council were hosts this week to a group of businessmen from the Middle East who visited Mississippi.

The Governor said that the trip to Mississippi by the businessmen was a result of his recent trade mission to the Middle East, and that the businessmen were "extremely interested" in doing further business with the state.

Waller, members of the Marketing Council, and several Mississippi businessmen met with the group at the Governor's Mansion Saturday morning to discuss expanding trade with Mississippi.

Children and adults in Waveland, were treated to a lot of Blarney Saturday with the opening of the Blarney Castle at 229 Coleman Avenue, next to Mollere Realty.

Grand opening ceremonies Saturday at 11 a.m. were presided over by Mayor John Longo and Waveland Civic Association president Al Champagne. The captain of the Blarney itself is Dix Ashman and wife, Ann.

The Blarney Castle will specialize in ice cream creations, and bits of tempting breakfast, brunch or lunch offerings.

Homemade ice cream makes summer treat

MISSISSIPPI STATE — You can make your family extra happy this summer by providing one of the all time taste treats—homemade ice cream. Children of all ages enjoy helping make and eat ice cream.

It's easy on Mom, too. Just follow these simple directions, says Nancy Ertz, foods and nutrition specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

- Always read and follow instructions for your particular freezer.
- Always be sure the freezer is clean. Wash all parts thoroughly and allow to cool.
- Weigh or measure salt. You will need about three to four cups of rock salt (about two pounds) and 20 pounds of crushed ice to freeze one gallon of ice cream.
- Place container and dasher in the freezer bucket and fill the can one-half to one-third full with the chilled mix. Make sure the can is well-covered and securely fastened to the bucket.
- While turning the freezer, add ice and salt in layers. Begin with about two inches of ice and evenly distribute one-fourth cup of rock salt. Alternately add ice and salt until container is surrounded and covered.
- Continue to turn freezer until it becomes hard to turn.
- Drain brine by tilting the freezer. Remove ice and salt to two inches below cover. Wipe the cover free of ice and salt, remove cover and dasher. Scrape dasher.
- Push ice cream down from sides of the can, cover with foil and replace the cover.
- Pack the freezer bucket with ice and salt. Wrap a heavy towel or newspaper around the top of the bucket and let stand for one to two hours in a cool place for "hardening." Check frequently and add more ice if needed.
- Homemade ice cream is best when eaten right after hardening.

Ice cream is more than just good, it's also good for you. It's rich in protein, calcium and energy for those summer activities, as well as other nutrients. Do something nice for you and your family. Make homemade ice cream this summer.

Local residents of Kiln, Miss. will remember with fondness the boxing exploits of Clayton "Big Boy" Peterson, one time contender for the world heavyweight title. Save the Bay hearing continued

Under cross-examination by Holleman, however, Riess admitted that he did not know of any specific examples where the land value had been lowered. "I'm just saying what our membership feels about this," said Riess. "The membership of Save the Bay feels that its land value will be devalued because of questionable water quality, but I'm not a realtor. I can't give any specific examples."

In Homes' attempt to show that the MAWPCC would not be harmed by a permit suspension, Homes examined MAWPCC executive director Glen Wood, Jr.

Wood said that if the credibility of the state commission was questioned, "the EPA may re-evaluate our authority." However, he stipulated before giving his answer that "I really don't think I'm qualified to determine if the commission would be harmed by a permit suspension."

Homes then tried to enter into the merits of the case to show the likelihood of Save the Bay's winning the case, but after Holleman's repeated objections were sustained, Judge Alexander told the Save the Bay attorney to confine himself to the question of the permit suspension. "You don't have to show a likelihood to win the case," said Alexander. "You wouldn't be in this courtroom if you didn't think you could win the case."

Mayor Warren Carver of Bay St. Louis, Homes' final witness in the morning session, was late for the hearing, and the Save the Bay attorney told Judge Alexander that the Bay St. Louis Mayor may be "a hostile witness."

However, when Carver appeared at mid-morning to testify, Homes retracted that statement and said, "He may be an adverse witness."

Homes attempted to show with Mayor Warren Carver that the public in general was endangered by the permit. Carver said that Bay St. Louis, as well as the rest of the cities along the Coast, draw their drinking water from artesian wells.

The MAWPCC, when it approved the DuPont permit, was in charge of checking the plant's effect on the water quality in the area.

A public hearing on the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers is set for 1 p.m. today at the Westside Community Center in Gulfport.

Stanislaus Spanish students return from Costa Rica

A group of 23 students and nine teachers and parents from St. Stanislaus High School returned recently from a trip to Costa Rica.

The group, led by Brother Eduardo Baldoceda and Mrs. Helen Currie, Spanish teachers at St. Stanislaus, allowed the students who have been studying Spanish in school during the past year to improve their Spanish speaking ability and to learn the culture of Costa Rica.

The group stayed in San Jose, the capital of Costa Rica, for six days visiting the National Museum, the Gold Museum and the National Theatre where they attended a performance of the Ballet Folklorico of Costa Rica.

They assisted at Mass in Spanish at the Metropolitan Cathedral.

Several trips were made into the country side around San Jose including trips to the top of Irazu, the 11,000 ft. volcano, which last erupted during the 1960's, to the Orosi Valley and to Ojo de Agua (Eye of Water). An all-day tour to the city of Puntarenas on the Pacific Coast was a final stop on the trip.

The recent trip was the third annual trip sponsored by the Foreign Language department at St. Stanislaus for Spanish students. Two years ago the students went to Monterrey, Mexico, and last year the trip was to Mexico City.

On the cover of the book is a sketch by John Hertel of the Bay Bridge leading into the Bay St. Louis beachfront area.

An introduction, "An Historical Review of the Bay St. Louis-Waveland Area", by Sylvia McComiskey accompanies the sketches.

Gordy accepted at Ole Miss dental school

Mrs. Frances Moran Gordy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Joseph Moran, Sr., of Bay St. Louis, is one of 25 Mississippians accepted for the state's first dental student class at the University of Mississippi School of Dentistry at the Medical Center.

Mrs. Gordy earned her B.A. degree in 1973 at Millsaps College.

The students will register in September, said Dr. Wallace V. Mann, school dean. The Council on Dental Education accredited the new school in May.

Accreditation of the new school came less than a year after faculty began work on the four-year dental education program and only 18 months after Mann was named dean.

The 1973 state legislature authorized the UM School of Dentistry, and construction will begin this summer on the $10.8 million educational facilities package, Mann said.

Hinds County and the City of Jackson each provided $1,250,000 toward the project, with the balance coming from state appropriation.

Anticipated completion date on the five-story dental education building and a classroom addition to the Medical Center complex is July, 1977. Until then, dental students will share learning resources with the Schools of Medicine and Health Related Professions.

Here's how to get maximum air conditioning efficiency:

- Energy conservation: To help you save money on air conditioning and get the most efficient use of your electric service, set the thermostat at the highest comfortable temperature, usually about 78°.
- Filters: Clean or change air conditioning filters at least once a month. Dirty filters make the unit work harder and cause higher operating costs.
- Sunlight: Your air conditioning unit works extra hard to combat heat from direct sunlight. Awnings, shutters, and drapes over windows provide the best - protection from sun's rays. Keep them drawn during the sunniest part of the day.

- Nighttime: If unit has been off during a cool night, give it an early start the next morning before a new day's summer heat fills the house.
- Air flow: Make certain that you have free passage of air to and from your unit both inside and outside your house.
- Insulation: Adequate insulation will result in lower operating costs. Usually six inches in the ceiling and four inches in walls is suggested. Don't forget to weatherstrip windows and doors, too!

Basketball camp draws interest

UNIVERSITY, Miss.-Basketball is drawing attention at Ole Miss during the summer vacation months with the approaching fifth annual Ole Miss basketball camps. Camp dates are June 15-21 for girls and June 22-28 and Aug. 3-9 for boys.

Last year in two sessions, enrollment approached the 400 level. And early indications are that this summer's figures will match last years, said Rebel Coach Robert Jarvis, camp director.

"We had a large number of requests for a boys camp later in the summer," said Jarvis. "And this early August date should prove an enjoyable week of learning before all pre-school activities get underway again."

Rebel assistant coaches Bill Bolton and Ken Turner will be assistant directors with premier high school coaches serving as instructional staff.

Headlining the boys staff will be Billy Wells, coach of Class A champion Winona along with Larry McKay of Class BB champ Baldwin.

Other tutors with championship heritage include Jerry Brawner of Alcorn Central, Gaylon Baird of Horn Lake, Jay Dye of Osborne Pass Christian.

Ten models from Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian will present fashions from the shop at the show which is open to residents of the condominium, guests and friends.

Coordinators of the show are Ruth Wentworth, Jane Johnson and Ida Burke. Admission is $1.50.

The Princess Dress Shop in Bay St. Louis will present a poolside fashion show at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, June 21 at the Penthouse Condominium in Pass Christian.

Not blowing smoke

Obviously this young lady's pretty smile indicates that she isn't really in distress, despite her use of smoke flare, the boat's traditional signal for aid. It's just her method of alerting boaters everywhere that

June 30 to July 4 has been designated National Safe Boating Week—a time to brush up on safety practices for a summer of fun afloat. In other words, she's not just blowing smoke.

Home economist gives energy tips

MISSISSIPPI STATE: Air conditioning is the biggest and most expensive consumer of household energy in the summer. Electric bills soar with the rising temperature.

How can you beat the heat without blowing your budget in the process? Miss Frances Fortenberry, housing and equipment specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, suggests several ways.

A 78- to 80-degree temperature range is recommended by the Federal Energy Administration. This is a comfortable setting, says Miss Fortenberry, especially if the outside temperature is 10 to 20 degrees higher.

Humidity is often the main source of discomfort. The suggested 78- to 80-degree range is effective in lowering humidity. Set the fan on low speed when the humidity, not the heat, is high.

Good insulation is necessary in keeping the heat out and the cool air in. Also important are heat deflectors such as drawn draperies, awnings, verticle louvers, and shades. Trees around a house are natural insulation, so if you are house-shopping, look for one with many trees.

Ventilate the attic with larger air louvers, or install thermostatically controlled exhaust fans, a rotating ventilator or exhausts in the roof, recommends the specialist. This prevents a furnace-like build up of heat in the attic.

Do not add heat and keep heat production to a minimum. Cook early in the morning or outside on the grill in the evening. It helps to do other heat- and moisture-producing activities in the cooler part of the day. Turn off unnecessary lights they add heat to the room. Your air conditioner has to remove this heat before you can be comfortably cool.

Miss Fortenberry says by using your air conditioner sparingly and avoiding super-cool temperatures, you can save energy and money and beat the heat this summer.

Not blowing smoke

Obviously this young lady's pretty smile indicates that she isn't really in distress, despite her use of smoke flare, the boat's traditional signal for aid. It's just her method of alerting boaters everywhere that

June 30 to July 4 has been designated National Safe Boating Week—a time to brush up on safety practices for a summer of fun afloat. In other words, she's not just blowing smoke.

Home economist gives energy tips

MISSISSIPPI STATE: Air conditioning is the biggest and most expensive consumer of household energy in the summer. Electric bills soar with the rising temperature.

How can you beat the heat without blowing your budget in the process? Miss Frances Fortenberry, housing and equipment specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, suggests several ways.

A 78- to 80-degree temperature range is recommended by the Federal Energy Administration. This is a comfortable setting, says Miss Fortenberry, especially if the outside temperature is 10 to 20 degrees higher.

Humidity is often the main source of discomfort. The suggested 78- to 80-degree range is effective in lowering humidity. Set the fan on low speed when the humidity, not the heat, is high.

Good insulation is necessary in keeping the heat out and the cool air in. Also important are heat deflectors such as drawn draperies, awnings, verticle louvers, and shades. Trees around a house are natural insulation, so if you are house-shopping, look for one with many trees.

Ventilate the attic with larger air louvers, or install thermostatically controlled exhaust fans, a rotating ventilator or exhausts in the roof, recommends the specialist. This prevents a furnace-like build up of heat in the attic.

Do not add heat and keep heat production to a minimum. Cook early in the morning or outside on the grill in the evening. It helps to do other heat- and moisture-producing activities in the cooler part of the day. Turn off unnecessary lights they add heat to the room. Your air conditioner has to remove this heat before you can be comfortably cool.

Miss Fortenberry says by using your air conditioner sparingly and avoiding super-cool temperatures, you can save energy and money and beat the heat this summer.

Structured marketing process involves many costly steps

MISSISSIPPI STATE — Criticism is constantly made of the meat trade for failure to reduce consumer prices by the amount of reductions in live animal prices. Before deciding that meat prices are out of line, consider the whole picture in meat production and retailing, suggests Ann O. Rushing, marketing specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Unfortunately, all the steer is not steak, nor is all of the hog pork chops and ham. The meat trade has the very complicated task of selling all meat cuts that come with the animal.

Prices and processing are the means by which packers and retailers attempt to sell all of the meat cuts. Some cuts are more popular than others because they are quick and easy to prepare, more attractive, tender, or even have some status attached to them. Other cuts may take a long time to prepare, be difficult to carve or serve, and not too exciting in either taste or appearance.

If all cuts were equally priced the better-liked cuts would sell quickly while others would be left over. To ration popular cuts, higher prices are charged. Lower prices are charged for the cuts of lesser demand. Constant juggling of prices is necessary to get all cuts sold, explains Mrs. Rushing.

Processing makes some of the less desirable cuts more attractive to consumers. Grinding and molding, as for sausage products, can give tenderness, convenience and a more attractive appearance. Processing costs money but makes the meats worth more because less expensive cuts can be used in place of expensive ones.

When looking at retail meat prices you need to consider that a few cents per pound change in prices translates into some very different percentage changes at different places in the marketing process. If the producer price goes down 10 per cent, the same cents per pound reduction at the retail store may only be five per cent because marketing costs are added to the producer prices to obtain the retail price of meat. Some major costs are fixed. Remember, when the packer's and retailer's costs of meat go down they still have to pay employees the same wage scale and other fixed costs remain the same, reminds Mrs. Rushing.

Consumers save by home canning

MISSISSIPPI STATE — This is another in a series of articles designed to help the consumer properly can and freeze fresh fruits and vegetables.

Your home freezer can pay big dividends if you use it to the best advantage.

Mrs. Ina Kimbrough, foods and nutrition specialist, Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service, says the freezer should be kept at 0 degree Fahrenheit or below. At higher temperatures, foods lose quality much faster.

Use containers that are easy to seal and are waterproof to prevent leakage. Packaging materials must be durable and must not become so brittle at low temperatures that they crack.

Moisture-vapor-proof materials prevent evaporation and help keep the highest quality in frozen food. Many packaging materials are not moisture-vapor-proof, but are sufficiently moisture-vapor-resistant to retain satisfactory quality of fruits and vegetables during storage. Glass, metal, and rigid plastic are examples of moisture-vapor-proof packaging materials.

Most bags, wrapping materials, and waxed cartons made especially for freezing are moisture-vapor-resistant.

Moisture-vapor-resistant materials suitable for wrapping food for freezing are aluminum freezer foil (special heavy weight), cellophane-coated freezer paper, laminated freezer paper, polyethylene-coated freezer paper and polyethylene plastic. Wax-coated freezer paper is suitable for wrapping foods that are to be stored for short periods of time only.

The best way to seal freezer paper is with special freezer tape, which sticks well at low temperatures. Some of the wrapping materials may be heat-sealed with a regular household iron or a special sealing iron.

Bags of different kinds of plastic are available in various sizes. Seal as directed on the package of bags. Twist the top and fold over before fastening. Use a protective carton to guard bags against tears and to make packages easier to stack and label, advises the specialist.

Dairy Month observed by state

MISSISSIPPI STATE — "You've come a long way, baby" is a compliment that the Mississippi dairy industry certainly deserves.

June is again being observed as "Dairy Month" nationally for the 39th consecutive year as a salute to our dairy industry, reports Mrs. Ann Rushing, state chairman of the 1975 June Dairy Month Promotional Campaign and Extension marketing specialist.

"One of the first American settlers — the cow — not only stayed and survived unfavorable conditions found in many of the colonies, but now has become a part of a national multi-million dollar industry," said Mrs. Rushing. "This animal has become very important to our culture and dairy products are one of the four major food groups smart homemakers serve their families."

Farm value of all milk produced in Mississippi amounted to $83,353,000 in 1974, reports Dr. David Trammell, leader of the Extension marketing department. "The 129,000 milk cows in the state produced 907 million pounds of milk last year. That's an average of 7,031 pounds per cow or 816 gallons each," Dr. Trammell said. "The total quantity of all types of milk products produced is tremendous, but last year 4,497,000 gallons of ice cream alone were produced in Mississippi."

Dr. Trammell also said there were 1,353 grade A dairy farmers in the state and six manufacturing milk processing plants.

Not only have milk and other dairy products come a long way, but they continue to go a long way into every home in America.

Ninety-foot basepaths appear to be too great a distance for youngsters playing Junior Babe Ruth League baseball. The 13-15 year-olds, just out of the little league where the bases are 60 feet apart, suddenly find themselves on fields with major league dimensions.

It must surely be a frustrating experience for 13-year-olds.

Hits that would have found their way into left field in the little league are nothing more than weak rollers to the shortstop. Pitchers, accustomed to throwing from 48 feet away, find the additional 12½ feet a problem, and many develop poor pitching techniques to compensate for the extra distance.

Despite the longer basepaths, runners find it easier to steal bases because very few catchers can throw the ball all the way to second base with accuracy.

All in all, the Junior Babe Ruth League game lacks the competitiveness of the other age groups, just because there are an inordinate number of bases on balls.

There can be many explanations for the high-scoring, lop-sided scores in Junior Babe Ruth League action, but I think the added distance is a contributing factor.

Instead of the 90-foot base lengths, the Junior Babe Ruth League should have scaled its field to accommodate boys who are bigger than little leaguers but who are still not big enough to compete with the older high school boys.

Perhaps a distance such as 75 between bases would make the game more competitive for this middle group of boys. It would be a graduation from the little league's 60-foot basepaths, and it would be a step toward the eventual goal of 90 feet.

Two arguments for having the children play on the regulation high school diamonds should be considered.

First, the 75-foot basepaths would require that the Junior Babe Ruth League have its own diamond, and this would be an added cost. The question it raises of economics is a valid one that must be considered.

Second, some feel that by having the 13-15-year-olds play on the high school diamonds will help them adapt their game to regulation distances so that they will be prepared to play high school baseball when their time comes.

At present, however, is not valid since most of the boys will not go on to play high school baseball. Also, the boys should not have to fit into regulation distances but rather, the regulation distances should fit the boys' abilities.

Mike Marshall, a major league baseball pitcher who has made a study of youth baseball, says that attempts to make children play the game on the adult scale causes physical problems for many of the children and eventually hampers their playing ability.

He emphasizes that having children throw the ball distances longer than what is normal for them can affect their throwing arms.

Obviously, what needs to be done cannot be remedied overnight, but the question is one worthy of consideration. Would a smaller diamond make the game more competitive for the 13-15-year-olds?

The men who recently made news for requiring a girl to pass a cup inspection before she could play little league baseball, should have to pass an inspection on their own — a sobriety and-or sanity.

Obviously, the first concern of these men is not the welfare of the children in the program but their own self interests.

THIS WEEK'S QUIZ: How did the seventh-inning stretch originate? (Question comes from E. Davis McCutcheon of Pass Christian)

Answer to the last quiz: Roger Bannister was the first sub-four-minute miler with a time of 3:59.4 on May 6, 1954 in Oxford, England. The present mile record is held by Filbert Bayi who recently broke Jim Ryuns' record with a time of 3:51.0 in Kingston, Jamaica.

Surging to the top

Bay St. Louis-Diamondhead surged into first place in the Senior Babe Ruth League past the early season favorites. Catcher Donald Corb has been instrumental in their rise to the top.

Bay gets ready for first Junior Fishing Rodeo

The first annual Junior Fishing Rodeo June 28, sponsored by the Bay Waveland Gun and Rod Club, promises to be a shot in the arm to our local aspiring anglers who before have had to journey to neighboring communities to find the excitement of a fishing jamboree.

The Gun and Rod Club hopes the fishing rodeo will be such a success that the event will become an annual affair eventually sponsored by the city.

Local angler Richard Schaefer, who has been known to win a few fishing prizes himself in local rodeos, said Gun and Rod Club members hoped the rodeo would "take off" with youngsters in Bay St. Louis.

"Our facilities are just as good here in Bay St. Louis as you can find anywhere else on the coast," Schaefer said, "and we want to see Bay St. Louis get started on something like this for its youngsters."

USM girls camp gets big response

HATTIESBURG — The response for the First Annual University of Southern Mississippi Girls Basketball Camp June 15-20 and June 22-27, has been excellent according to director Coach J. Larry Ladner.

"We are very pleased with the tremendous response. The interest and enthusiasm is a tribute to the girl's basketball coaches and players throughout Mississippi and surrounding states," said Ladner.

Instructors for the junior high school girls camp June 15-20, include Mike Gullidge, Petal; Mike Necaise, Bay St. Louis; Sharon Sims, Pearl-McLaurin; Frankie Walsh, Pelahatchie; Betty Everett, Meridian, and Ford Turner, Sumrall.

High school instructors for June 22-27 include Jerry Henderson, Madison-Ridgeland; Winston Van Chancellor, Harrison Central; Sylvia Williams, St. Aloysious; Georgia Carol Uithoven, Meridian; Leon

Clark, Brooklyn; and Ronny Cowser, Lumberton. "We are very grateful for the instructors and players who desire to associate with USM and the department of the athletic administration and coaching in the camps," commented M. C. Johnson, chairman of the department, in the School of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Counselors that are assisting instructors include Janelle Williams, Pearl-McLaurin; Debbie Hubert, New Orleans; and Connie Nelson, Oak Grove. The counselors were all majors in the athletic administration and coaching department.

Christmas comes to Bay St. Louis, 15-9

By DAVID PIERSON
Echo Sports Editor

Santa Claus came to Bay St. Louis in nine red suits, committing errors and giving away runs like Christmas presents as the league-leading Bay St. Louis-Diamondhead baseball team waltzed to a 15-9 Senior Babe Ruth League win over the Harrison Central Red Rebels Sunday evening in Bay St. Louis.

The big inning came in the fourth when Bay St. Louis scored 14 times on just five hits to overcome a four-run deficit.

Harrison Central had extended its lead to 5-1 in the top of the fourth inning when they scored three runs on a walk and three singles.

Then in the bottom of the fourth inning, Christmas came to Bay St. Louis.

Donald Corb walked and Tim Favre doubled him home with a soft line drive to right center. Vernon Powell, Adrian Favre, and Arnold Fairconnetue all drew walks to cut the lead to 5-3. Randy Krankey then hit a sharp ground ball that went through the second baseman's legs and into right field, scoring another run.

Bill Ginn followed with a ground ball to the first baseman who threw wildly to home for the force at the plate, allowing both Powell and Fairconnetue to score on the play. Another run scored on an error on the next play, and Bay St. Louis moved in front 7-5.

But the Christmas nightmare was just starting for Harrison Central. With two out and runners on second and third, Mac McDonald ripped a line drive to right field that would normally have been a two-run single, but this was Christmas. The rightfielder slipped and the ball bounced over him and rolled to the fence for a stand-up triple.

Tim Favre followed with a ground ball that went through the third baseman's legs, and the score was 10-5. Powell drew another base on balls, and Adrian Favre loaded the bases with a broken bat single to center. Again Fairconnetue walked with the bases loaded, and Krankey upped the score to 12-5 with a hard shot past the third baseman.

Bill Ginn then capped the inning by "drilling a bases-loaded triple against the fence in center field.

In all, 20 Bay St. Louis batters came to the plate in the inning and scored 14 runs on just five hits. The three Harrison Central pitchers issued seven walks, and there were four fielding miscues.

Vince Necessary of Harrison Central connected on a three-run home run in the top of the fifth inning to cut the lead to 15-8, and the Red Rebels added an unearned run in the seventh for all the scoring.

Adrian Favre went the route on the mound for Bay St. Louis and was credited with the win. He fanned eight, walked three, and allowed 11 hits.

Willie Willis was charged with the loss.

SPORT TALK Q & A

By Charlie Henderson

Q. Okay, racing fans, who is the only driver to win the big Daytona "500" more than once? As a hint, he's famous for driving his old No. 43.

A. North Carolina's Richard Petty. He has won the Daytona "500" more than once. He's drawn the checkered flag there four times since 1959. Petty is also five times NASCAR National Stock Car champion.

Q. Why did they call the late James J. Braddock boxing's "Cinderella Man"?

A. Braddock, the last of the Irish champs who once dominated the boxing world, broke a hand in 1933 and it almost ended his career. A year later, he was on relief...but in 1935 he got a shot at the heavy weight championship. His storybook decision over Max Baer on June 13, 1935, is still called the greatest upset in heavyweight boxing history. The rags-to-riches story made Braddock the "Cinderella Man."

McDonald's extra-inning single beats Long Beach

Mac McDonald, singled sharply to center field in the eighth inning to score two runs and give the Bay St. Louis Diamondhead baseball team a 4-2 win over the Long Beach Maroons last Wednesday in Senior Babe Ruth League action.

McDonald's winning hit came off Long Beach pitcher ace Ricky White, who had previously thrown two shutouts in two earlier outings.

The Maroons scored the first two runs of the game when Fulton singled in two runs with one out in the second inning. The Diamondhead nine struck back in the top of the third inning when McDonald reached safely on an error and Arnold Fairconnetue singled. The two then advanced to second and third bases on a double steal, and Ricky Adams followed with a sacrifice bunt that scored one run. A bad throw on the play enabled Fairconnetue to race home with the tying run.

In the fifth inning the Bay St. Louis ball club had starting Long Beach pitcher Joe Taylor on the ropes when McDonald and Adrian Favre rapped back-to-back singles and Fairconnetue was hit by a pitch. With none out and the bases loaded, Maroon coach Billy Wayne Crosby lifted Taylor in favor of his pitching ace Ricky White.

White in his previous two outings had allowed a total of two hits and no runs in 14 innings, and extended that perfect string by setting down the next three Bay St. Louis hitters on an infield pop fly and two strikeouts.

In the sixth, Diamondhead again threatened when Mike Favre walked and reached third base with no one out, but again White frustrated the Local netters win at invitational

Three Bay St. Louis girls—Anne Johnson, Lis Lagarde, and Anne Marie Trombley—represented the Gulf Coast at the Mississippi U.S.L.T.A. Closed Qualifying Tournament held last week at the Parham Bridges Tennis Center in Jackson, and all three girls finished among the tournament leaders.

Anne Johnson, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Charles Johnson and a student at Coast Episcopal High School, finished in fourth place in the 16-and-under girls' bracket. Miss Johnson eliminated Lisa Rice of Jackson in the first round 6-4, 6-2 and then overpowered Ruthie Peabody 6-2, 6-1 to reach the semi-finals where she lost a close 6-4, 6-4 match to Alice Christian.

Lis Lagarde, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lagarde, finished in third place in the 14-and-under girls' bracket with wins of 6-2, 6-3 over Jo Lynn Serio in the first round and a long 7-6, 6-7, 6-3 win over Mary Roberts in the quarter-finals. In the semis, the OLA student lost a grueling four-hour, three-set match to the eventual tournament champion, Nanette Thomas 3-6, 6-4, 3-6.

Anne Marie Trombley, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Trombley, reached the finals in the ten-and-under group. Next year is the 200th birthday of our country. To encourage the involvement of every Mississippian in this celebration, the Mississippi American Revolution Bicentennial Commission has established several projects and programs, all derived from the theme "A Past to Honor: A Future to Mold." One major program is titled Horizons '76, "a challenge to every American to undertake at least one principal project which manifests the pride and the hopes of his community." Bay St. Louis and Waveland are both recognized as National Bicentennial Communities.

We annually sponsor a two-day tour of Bell Telephone Laboratories in Murray Hill, New Jersey, for outstanding Mississippi High School science students and their science teachers. The 1975 winner was Miss Susan McDonald of Tylertown High School and her teacher, Mrs. Ellen Brunfield. On May 19 and 20, Susan and her teacher took the Bell Labs tour, which is designed to bridge the gap between the science class and the practical application of scientific knowledge.

It's summer and school's out. For many that means vacation trips to special places, like a visit with grandparents. The best way to complete vacation plans and be sure of your welcome, is a long distance call. Remember, One-Plus rates are always lower than rates for operator-assisted station and person calls. The lowest One-Plus rates are in effect every night from 11 P.M. until 8 A.M. and on weekends from 8 A.M. Saturday until 5 P.M. Sunday. The next lowest rates are evenings Sunday through Friday from 5 P.M. until 11 P.M.

*Low One-Plus rates do not apply to person-to-person, coin, hotel-guest, credit card, or collect calls, or to calls charged to another number including special billing numbers, because an operator must assist on such calls.

KANTCHA KETCHUM

By L.S. (Deq. Elliott)

Bass and perch fishing the past week was really good with the tides being low all day, carrying a lot of bad water out. They were caught by fly fishing and by casting.

Pearl River and Jourdan River are still on the bad side due to last week's rains. However, they are clearing again and fishing in them should improve.

Salt water fishing out front isn't too good. Water from Jourdan River is on the murky side. A few speckles and red fish are being caught. If the rains ever stop the water will have a chance to clear up and fishing will become normal again.

Some flounders are being speared where good water can be found. Can't say much for soft crabs.

Shrimp are being caught. For those folks who use them, it is good news to know that they can be gotten at Borage's Camp and at France's Camp. Borage's Camp is on Bayou Cadet and France's Camp is on Bayou Anselmy.

The season for hunting bullfrogs and lagoon frogs opened in Louisiana on June 1, according to an announcement by the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission. Under current laws, the frog hunting season is closed in April and May.

J. Burton Angelle, director, said that the regulations for taking frogs in Louisiana at night were simple, but added that they are strictly enforced.

Frogs may be taken with the aid of a jack light or any other visible light, and by the means of mechanical devices known as frog catchers, provided these do not puncture the skin or render the meat of the frog.

The taking of frogs by means of spears or other devices which puncture the skin or render the meat of the frogs is especially prohibited. Angelle stressed that it is unlawful for any person to carry or have in his possession any shotgun, rifle, or firearm while taking or hunting frogs at night.

Of course plenty frogs are caught in Mississippi also.

Brown blast beats Pass Christian Steelers

Bruce Brown crashed a three-run home run over the left field fence in the first inning, and the Long Beach Maroons went on to down the Pass Christian Steelers 6-5 Sunday afternoon in Senior Babe Ruth League action.

Brown provided the first inning homer after Bill Lansdale singled and Bob Richards walked to start off the ballgame.

The Steelers came back for two runs in the bottom of the first inning when Paul Stewart and Mark Jenkins both singled with one out. Jenkins stole second, and Perry Jenkins lined a single to score both runners.

Long Beach's Ricky White and Mitch Garriga of Pass Christian then locked into a pitcher's duel through the middle innings with neither team scoring. In the fifth, however, the Maroons scored one run when Larry Wilson singled and Bill Lansdale, who had walked in the fourth, singled on a single to score both runners.

Pass Christian extended its lead in the top of the sixth when Wes Wescovich and Bill Lansdale both singled to score both runners.

Wescovich was then thrown out at the plate trying to score on a ground ball by White. Warren followed with a walk to load the bases, and Wilson produced a run-scoring single. The last run of the inning scored when White scored on a fielder's choice by Bill Lansdale.

In the bottom of the inning, Pass Christian narrowed the gap to one run when White ran into control problems on the mound. After loading the bases on two walks and a hit batsman, White served up a base on balls to Myron Cook to force in one run with none out.

The next batter hit into a force play at the plate. Pass Christian then gambled on a suicide squeeze play, but Brent Jenkins missed bunting the ball and Perry Jenkins was easily put out at the plate.

Brent Jenkins then rapped a single to centerfield, scoring two runs.

White went on to set down the Steelers in the seventh inning and record his third win of the season against one loss. He fanned nine, walked six, and allowed just four Pass Christian hits.

Mitch Garriga was the starting and losing pitcher for the Steelers. He was relieved in the fifth by Myron Cook.

Lansdale and Bob Richards gathered two hits for the winners, and Perry and Brent Jenkins both got two RBI's for Pass Christian. The Maroons stranded five runners on base and Pass Christian left three.

The loss dropped the Steelers' record to 3-2 in league play.

Goodyear's new All-Weather 78 is built with polyester cord that's first tempered in an exclusive Goodyear process to set the cord at optimum strength and resilience. The wide 78-series tread is "reverse molded," a technique borrowed from race tire production. In reverse molding, the contour of the tread surface is slightly concave as it comes from the mold—so that when the tire is inflated, the tread makes full, flat contact with the road. And the rib-type tread design is well grooved, with plenty of traction edges to provide decisive grip. In every detail, this new All-Weather 78 gives honest quality, at a price that steps with the time.

By L. S. (Dec) Elliott

period July 1, 1975 through June 30, 1976, went on sale June 1, according to an announcement by the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission.

J. Burton Angelle, director, said that under provisions of Act 223, changed during the 1974 Legislature, resident fishing licenses sold after June 1 are valid from date of issue.

"This applies only to resident fishing licenses," he said, "and state anglers are not required to carry their 1974-75 fishing licenses with them until July 1. Possession of a valid 1975-76 resident fishing license is sufficient."

He said that the provision did not apply to non-resident fishing licenses.

Anyone out of the state must have a non-resident license. However, both sides of Pearl River are eligible to fishing with either a L.A. or Miss. license.

On word from Charles Black, Mr. Roy Frizzell has purchased a home on a canal in Bay St. Louis and expects to do a lot of fishing. He comes down from Jackson and is 74 years old.

Loves to fish on the Gulf Coast and gets his share of the finny tribe. Welcome to our section, Roy, Charles is his son-in-law. Mr. Frizzell is general manager of the Jackson Coliseum.

This is a Mississippi Coast Yachting Association team racing event with each participating club entering four Flying Scots in each of the four races. For the fifth consecutive year BWYC will hold on to the Chapman trophy. Biloxi Yacht Club, who finished second, still holds the record, having won it ten times thus far.

Buzzy Heausler, the first race for Bay-Waveland with Tommy Heausler and Marc Eagan crewing. Mike Reeves was second with Chris Stieffel and Bubby Eagan as crew. Ann Stieffel finished ninth with Weezy Kennedy and Mimi Eagan crewing, and Aaron Adams was eleventh with Ellen Eagan and Ed Turnipseed.

The second of the twenty boat races was won by Marc Eagan with crew Ellen Eagan and Ed Turnipseed. In second place was Danny Killen of Pass Christian Yacht Club, followed by Charlie Staehle in third place with Cindy Stieffel and Buzzy Heausler.

The Sunday morning race was unavoidably postponed several hours, eventually causing the cancellation of the final race, due to the violent windstorm which roared across the Bay sending all the boats to seek shelter. Bubby Eagan won the third race for Bay Waveland with Ellen Eagan and Ed Turnipseed crewing. In second place was Chuck Breath, Mary and Kay Keigonsen crewing. John Christensen finished third with Marc Eagan and Tommy Heausler as crew.

The final scores for the Chapman Regatta were:
Bay-Waveland Yacht Club 19334
Biloxi Yacht Club 146
Pass Christian Yacht Club 114
Gulfport Yacht Club 109
Singing River Yacht Club 66

GREG HUTSON

The Player of the Week

The Bay St. Louis Babe Ruth Player of the Week is Greg Hutson who pitched and hit his Rotary Club baseball team to two wins and a share of the league lead.

Hutson struck out 11 batters and allowed just three hits in Rotary's recent 8-7 conquest of Dixie Realty. Offensively, he got two hits in three bats and drove in a pair of runs in the game.

Monday he hurled a five-hitter and banded out three hits and scored three runs as the Terry Boyette-coached team upended Hancock Supply 13-6.

Others receiving honorable mention for the weekly honor are Kerry Corr and Jerry Townsend of the Rotary Club; Frank Pernicaro and David Murtagh of Hancock Supply; Mark Dahl, Avendel Rabateau, and Kerry Geroux of American Legion; Jeff Reed of Dixie Realty; and Don Strong and Dwayne LaFontaine of Coast Electric.

Coast Electric loses

Coast Electric faltered. Rotary continued its charge. Dixie Realty was still having problems with the rain, and the American Legion confused the situation even more as the Bay St. Louis Junior Babe Ruth League reached its halfway mark with three teams deadlocked for first place and a fourth team just one-half game back.

Rotary won its third game in a row, a 13-6 decision over Hancock Supply, with the help of a big seven-run first inning. With two out and a runner on first base in the first inning, the Rotary hitters reached starting Hancock pitcher Mike Clifton for five hits and three walks, including three doubles by Jerry Townsend, S. Thomas, and K. Corr.

Down 11-0 in the bottom of the fourth, Hancock Supply battled back gamely to score five times with the help of six bases on balls.

Greg Hutson, the winning pitcher, gathered three hits in four plate appearances to lead all batters.

American Legion, 10-9

The Legionnaires out-slugged Coast Electric in the late innings to take a 10-9 win Monday evening in Junior Babe Ruth League action.

Kerry Geroux singled with the bases loaded, and Jeff Wallace followed with a walk to force in what proved to be the winning run. Coast Electric attempted a comeback in the bottom of the inning, but the rally ended with the bases loaded and the tying run on third base.

Geroux was the winning pitcher, and David LaFontaine took the loss.
